

Where Crash Took Two Lives

Wrecked Seabee of B.C. Air Lines is raised from sea off Bowen Island, northwest of Vancouver. Pilot A. N. Beach and N. J. Lebars, a timber cruiser, died when the plane plunged into the water. Two others escaped. At the inquest in Vancouver Friday, coroner J. D. Whitbread criticized two Department of Transport inspectors. He said information he had attempted to get was vital. 1 Senator Sobs, Other Collapses

WASHINGTON (AP)—A die-hard squad of senators fought doggedly on, hour after hour, today against the Communist control bill denounced by President Truman. Their avowed hope was that word from the people will change the minds of colleagues bent on overriding the Truman veto.

The strategy was disclosed by Senators Herbert Lehman (Dem., N.Y.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem., Minn.) as the Senate talk carried over from a night-long session.

Humphrey, however, conceded he had no real hope of upholding the veto. He figured no more than 15 senators would support Truman.

The long fight had taken its toll of casualties. Senator William Langer (Rep., N.D.) collapsed, gasping for breath, as he spoke against the measure. He was taken to hospital suffering from exhaustion. Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem., Ill.) was sobbing audibly.

Young Man Hangs Self In City Jail

A young man from Vancouver and Winnipeg hanged himself with his necktie in his cell in the city jail around 2.20 this morning.

Police are withholding his name until next-of-kin have been notified.

The man was arrested at 12.40 this morning for being intoxicated on Fisdard Street. He was placed in the "drunk cell."

Deputy Chief Harry Mercer said he was checked at 1.15 for "shouting and hollering." At 2, he was checked again and appeared to be sleeping. Twenty minutes later, Const. Keith Hollett heard a noise and, on investigating, found the man hanging from the cell door.

The tie was tied to one of the horizontal bars of the cell.

The fire department inhalator crew failed to revive him and Dr. E. L. McNiven pronounced him dead at 3 o'clock.

ANOTHER MAN QUESTIONED IN OAKES MURDER

Rumor Scotched Of Baroness Interview

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Oakland police today said they had questioned a 48-year-old man named George Boyle for several hours Friday night, after he had said he "knew something" about the 1943 murder in the Bahamas of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire.

Augustus Roberts, assistant police superintendent at Nassau, left here Thursday for the Bahamas, after questioning Edward Majava, 31, an Oakland machinist, who had said a "Florida society woman" had told him the name of the alleged killer.

In Miami, Roberts remained silent on what he had learned from Majava.

The police superintendent did, however, scotch a rumor that pretty Betty Roberts, now the Baroness Alexander de Blijderode of New York, was to be interviewed in connection with the case.

"I know who Betty Roberts is, but this is the first time I have heard her name mentioned in connection with the present inquiry," Roberts said.

The baroness, 16 at the time of the trial, was an important witness. Defence lawyers contended she talked with Alfred de Marigny, accused of the slaying, at the same time the crime was being committed. De Marigny was acquitted.

Martha Ray Charged

BOSTON (BUP)—Boisterous singer Martha Raye pleaded innocent to drunken driving and other charges today. She was arraigned a few hours after she, husband Nick Candos, their boxer dog and Cadillac convertible had wound up on a north end sidewalk.

'LOOSE ENDS' RETURNS

Bruce Hutchison To Rejoin Times Staff

Bruce Hutchison, distinguished Canadian author-editor-columnist, rejoins the staff of the Victoria Daily Times on Monday, Oct. 2.

Mr. Hutchison will write his editorial page column, "Loose Ends," which was an outstanding feature of this paper from 1929 to 1939, on a three-weekly basis, and will also contribute editorials from time to time.

In signing to do this special column for the Daily Times, Mr. Hutchison is returning to his journalistic Alma Mater. He began his newspaper career on the Times April 12, 1918, and rapidly established himself as one of the foremost commentators on the Canadian scene.

From political reporting in the B.C. Legislature Bruce Hutchison broadened out to cover Ottawa, London and Washington. His articles, covering an amazingly versatile range from economics to human interest and satire, were printed in such ranking publications as Fortune, Barron's, Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Financial Post, Maclean's, Colliers, and many others. At the same time he appeared regularly as a commentator on national affairs via the CBC.

Publishing New Book Nov. 2

In 1943 Hutchison produced "The Unknown Country," which has become a popular classic on Canada, with wide sale throughout the world. This was followed in 1946 by a novel, "Hollow Men," set against a British Columbia-Ottawa background. His third book, on the Fraser River, is due for publication Nov. 2. Advance critiques hail it as one of the finest books yet written in the "River" series.

In recent years Mr. Hutchison has been an associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, a connection which he continues.

When "Loose Ends" returns to the Daily Times, Mr. Hutchison will bring with him Mrs. Noggins, the Boy and Girl Next Door, and all the other characters who made this column one of the most widely-quoted features in the country.

Red Charge Of Drunk Canadians 'Fantastic'

OTTAWA (CP)—An R.C.A.F. spokesman described as "fantastic" today a Moscow charge that drunken Canadian fliers are killing wounded being evacuated from the former South Korean capital of Seoul.

There are no Canadian airmen on combat duty in the war theatre.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy today and Sunday. Occasional showers this afternoon and evening. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight 56, high Sunday 68.

R.C.A.F. JOINS HUNT FOR LOST U.S. BOMBER

16 Persons Aboard B-50 Now Overdue

OTTAWA (CP)—Nearly a dozen R.C.A.F. aircraft have joined the search for a United States B-50 bomber missing on a flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, to Tucson, Arizona, air force headquarters announced today. The U.S. plane is carrying a crew of 12 and four passengers.

Four Canso aircraft from nearby Rockcliffe airport and four Mitchells from Trenton, Ont., have flown into the Canadian search area, which extends from a point 100 miles east of the southern tip of James Bay to the Michigan border in western Ontario.

Two additional aircraft—one Lancaster and one North Star—are on one-hour standby orders at Rockcliffe. They are expected to take off this afternoon.

Two expert navigators from Rockcliffe have been flown to Trenton to join additional search parties there.

A Dakota, carrying a parachute rescue team, has been flown to Kapuskasing, Ont. It will remain there until the missing aircraft is sighted, then fly to the scene and parachute its rescue crew to the ground.

West Police Draw Back In Berlin Squabble

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police retreated today in a minor border tiff with East Berlin Communist police.

This latest in a series of East-West jurisdictional squabbles occurred over patrolling of streets between the U.S. sector borough of Kreuzberg and the Soviet borough of Mitte (city centre). This is near the Potsdamer Platz, where three sector borders (U.S., British and Soviet) meet.

For two years western police had, by tacit agreement, patrolled the sidewalks there although they lay just within the Soviet sector border. This was considered necessary because the buildings in the street lie within the U.S. border.

Friday night east sector police patrols suddenly appeared and announced they were taking over. To avoid conflict, U.S. officials told the West Germans to withdraw—even though it will require entering by the backdoor if they are summoned to any of the homes in the border street.

The bigger border dispute between the British authorities and Russians at suburban Glienicke remained unsolved.

There, on the city's western outskirts, a company of British Infantry remained on guard at a disputed barrier which the Russians several days ago moved forward in order to annex a road which lies within the British sector.

FAILS TO SEAT CHINESE REDS

FLUSHING, N.Y. (BUP)—Russia failed again today in its persistent attempt to seat the Chinese Communists in the United Nations General Assembly.

The 59-nation Assembly voted down 416 with three abstentions, a Russian motion to declare the credentials of the Chinese Nationalist delegation invalid.

U.N. Gains Greatest On Southeast Front

TOKYO (AP)—Allied Marines tightened the clamps on Seoul from two sides today. But fresh Red reinforcements for the Korean capital already had arrived from the southern front.

The pinch on Seoul came as Allied forces forged their greatest gains of the war on the southeastern front.

A U.S. intelligence officer said elements of the Korean Communist 9th Division, previously fighting the U.S. 25th Division on the old United Nations beachhead near Haman, reached Seoul Friday.

The Reds evidently swept northward up the main Taejon-Suwon-Seoul route before tank-led U.S. 7th Division infantrymen seized Suwon and its airfield Friday evening. Suwon is 20 miles south of Seoul.

Associated Press correspondent Reiman Morin, with the marines at Seoul, reported two American columns were driving on the ancient capital of 1,000,000 from the north and the southwest.

The northern prong, including South Korean marines, was in Seoul's outskirts within two miles of the heart of the sprawling city. The southwest prong took the shell-battered industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, on the south banks of the Han River, and pushed on toward ruined railroad bridges.

Marine intelligence reported the Red reinforcements from the south joined three individual regiments and a "rehabilitation battalion" in defence of Seoul. The battalion, comprised entirely of soldiers previously imprisoned for military offences, is expected to be sacrificed recklessly.

Earlier, Gen. MacArthur announced that Allied troops had fought into Seoul's northern outskirts.

It was the first official word of such a penetration. Aerial observers previously had reported U.S. marines inside the Korean capital but later checks showed them 500 yards from the city limit.

"United Nations forces north of the Han River are in the outskirts of Seoul," MacArthur reported, without elaboration as to whether they were U.S. or South Korean marines.

While these forces inched forward, U.S. infantrymen driving south from the city and north toward it from the old Pusan beachhead fought within 85 air miles of each other.

U.S. Planes Strafe British

WAEGWAN, Korea (CP)—

U.S. planes and Communist guns killed or wounded more than 150 British troops today.

The Americans hit the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders with napalm (jellied gasoline) incendiary bombs and raked them with machine-gun fire after the British troops had called for air support.

After the fighter-bombers had struck, the Communists swept over the position—held by two Argyll companies—and long-range Communist guns lobbed shells into the British lines farther back.

In 30 minutes the dead and wounded were believed to be well over 150.

The mistaken raid was on high ground which the Argylls had just captured.

The planes dropped their explosives too far back in spite of huge recognition panels laid out by the Scots.

Before the Communist attack the Argylls called for artillery support but none was available, the Americans having already withdrawn their guns.

An Associated Press photographer, Gene Herrick, watched the bombing incident from an advanced command post about 400 yards away.

Herrick said he made a number of pictures, but soon put down his camera to help carry litters of British wounded across the Nakdong River.

While he was helping to carry a wounded private across a bridge, North Koreans opened fire on the litter column.

The AP photographer said many of the British Tommies were angry, but others, including Pte. Arthur Holmes of Liverpool, were philosophical.

Holmes said, "It's just one of those things. This is something that couldn't be helped. Up to now the Yank air force has given us very good support."

Pte. John Grant of Glasgow said: "The better part of two companies was hit," and several officers were lost. Grant himself was injured.

Moscow Tries To Belittle Inchon Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Moscow has opened a new propaganda attack apparently aimed at belittling the significance of the Inchon landing by United Nations forces in Korea.

The Russians are taking the line that:

1. The drive on Seoul was necessary to "save face" after failure to break out of the South Korean bridgehead, and—

2. The operation proves the "weakness" rather than the strength of United States "imperialism."

U.S. officials reported this line is being broadcast by Moscow radio to listeners both in the Soviet Union and Europe.

Government monitors scanned recordings of the broadcasts for possible clues to Soviet-bloc intentions as the U.N. forces approach the 38th parallel, dividing line between north and south Korea. Thus far Moscow and the satellite capitals have been silent on that touchy point.

Nassau Police Official Scotches Rumor
Pretty Baroness To Be Interviewed In Case

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Oakland police today said they had questioned a 48-year-old man named George Boyle for several hours Friday night, after he had said he "knew something" about the 1943 murder in the Bahamas of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire.

R.C.A.F. Flies On Two More Mercy Flights

EDMONTON (CP)—The R.C.A.F. was engaged in two more mercy missions today, one in the Northwest Territories and the other in west-central Alberta.

A Dakota aircraft from Whitehorse, Y.T., was en route to Norman Wells, N.W.T., after evacuating Mrs. Raymond from Sawmill Bay, on the southeast shore of Great Bear Lake and 600 miles northeast of Whitehorse. The woman was reported suffering from pneumonia.

A helicopter took off from Edmonton today for Penhold, Alta., where it was to pick up a Calgary doctor and take him to the aid of an unidentified Alaskan hunter at Caroline, Alta., 90 miles west. The tourist was said to be suffering from a fractured hip.

Friday an Edmonton-based R.C.A.F. Dakota completed a 3,650-mile mercy flight, evacuating an ailing American from Eureka Sound weather station in the far north to hospital at Churchill, Man.

700 Battle Forest Fires In Alberta

In Newbrook Muskeg Blaze Whipped
Up; Fighters Suffer In Heat Wave

EDMONTON (CP)—More than 700 fire fighters today continued their week-long battle in sweltering fall temperatures against more than 30 forest fires threatening small towns, farm homes and valuable timber tracts in northern Alberta.

Only two fires have been brought under control in the last 24 hours and two new ones were reported overnight in the La la Biche region, 110 miles northeast of here.

Veteran forestry officials said, however, that Alberta's fire picture is more alarming than serious. The blazes have not yet entered market timber and others that have come close to settlements have been stopped before they did costly damage.

Temperatures have been about 10 degrees above normal for the last 12 days in the north.

Worst fire is raging at Wampan, 340 miles northwest of Edmonton, where more than 50 square miles of land have been blackened. Homes, cattle, crops and machinery have been destroyed on at least two farms. Several farms have been abandoned.

MUSKEG FIRE

At Newbrook, 60 miles north of here, wind increased again late Friday and whipped a persistent muskeg fire back into fury. The settlements of Alten Sliding, five miles north, and Abee, in the same area, were threatened as the fire spread south.

"It's not a case now of a few houses or one town being threatened," one Newbrook resident said. "The whole countryside is afire. The fire runs in the muskeg grass, then jump into small spruce stands and just explodes, shooting sparks all over."

Newbrook's 200 residents have been battling the fire since last Monday almost without let-up.

Secret Garson Report For Joint Conference

OTTAWA (BUP)—A report by Justice Minister Garson, probably to be heard in secret, is expected to highlight opening sessions of the Dominion-Provincial conference which will open in Quebec City Monday.

The report was written by Garson following his closed meeting last month with the 10 provincial attorneys-general. It is expected to reveal for the first time the measure of agreement—or disagreement—between the federal government and the provinces on methods of amending the national constitution.

Next week's meeting in Quebec's historic Legislative Buildings will be a resumption of negotiations started last January.

The purpose of the conference is to decide on a set of formulas for amending the British North America Act—Canada's basic written constitution—without reference to the British Parliament.

The committee of attorneys-general was set up in January at the first meeting between the federal government and the provinces. It studied amendment procedures under six headings and reached a substantial measure of agreement on what provisions of the Imperial act should fall under which heading.

Generally, the committee agreed that provisions concerning the federal Parliament alone should be dealt with by the federal Parliament and that those involving any or all of the provinces should be dealt with by agreement between the governments concerned.

However, the committee did not reach full agreement on amendment procedure for all matters of overlapping jurisdiction. They found it impossible at their three-day meeting to agree completely on a system which should be used for amending all sections of the constitution in which the federal government and the provinces have joint jurisdiction.

U.N. Assembly Debates Still Criticize Soviet

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly resumed its full sessions today with continuing debates critical of Russian policy.

The Netherlands, Chile and Belgium were on the speakers' list for the session.

All of them have spoken bitterly in the past of one or more phases of Soviet actions.

China's Tsiang F. Tsiang, fighting to keep the Nationalist Chinese delegation seated in the U.N. against Russian-supported attempt to displace them with the Chinese Communists, was also originally listed to speak today, but a delegation spokesman said Friday night Tsiang has decided to postpone his statement until Monday.

The assembly resumes its policy debates after a one-day holiday Friday taken at Egypt's request in deference to Moslem delegates observing a religious festival.

The Netherlands and Chile both have said biting things in past assembly sessions about human rights and their observance in countries under Soviet control. The Netherlands Foreign Minister, D. U. Stikker, was first on today's speaking list.

Tsiang's accusations that Russia has sabotaged peace throughout the Far East are expected to bring a sharp step-up next week of anti-Russian policy statements forcefully voiced in opening speeches by the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Brazil and Peru.

Sources close to the Chinese delegation said Tsiang is willing to keep silent for the time being on the Formosa issue. He told the assembly steering committee at an agenda hearing Friday that he is waiting for new instructions from his government, and obtained a delay on the United States' request to put Formosa on the agenda.

Red Reinforcements Join With Defenders

TOKYO (AP)—Two battle-tested U.S. division raced dramatically northward Saturday to see which would be the first to link up with American and South Korean marines fighting reinforced Reds in the outskirts of Seoul.

A 1st Cavalry Division task force pushed patrols beyond Sangju in south-central Korea late Saturday, gaining 35 miles in as many hours against North Koreans, who seemed to have lost the ability "to reinforce or do anything else but run," a staff officer reported.

About 85 air miles separated the speeding 1st Cavalry from the U.S. 7th Division around Suwon, south of Seoul.

A U.S. intelligence officer said elements of the Korean Communist 9th Division, previously fighting the U.S. 25th Division on the old United Nations beach-head near Haman, reached Seoul Friday.

The Reds evidently swept northward up the main Taejon-Suwon-Seoul route before tanked U.S. 7th Division infantrymen seized Suwon and its airfield Friday evening. Suwon is 20 miles south of Seoul.

Marine intelligence reported the Red reinforcements from the south joined three individual regiments and a "rehabilitation battalion" in defence of Seoul. The battalion, comprised entirely of soldiers previously imprisoned for military offences, is expected to be sacrificed recklessly.

Along a more southerly route, over what has been called "Heart-break Highway," U.S. 12th Division troops reached Kumchon on their way back towards Seoul.

A.P. correspondent Hal Boyle with the 1st Cavalry reported that many field officers believe a link-up in the north would destroy most of the Red Korean effective forces. If the link-up is accomplished within the next few days, Boyle said, these officers see a strong possibility of the end of major fighting in South Korea during the first week in October. Other officers were more conservative in their appraisal.

The 1st Cavalry was a little nearer than the 24th Division to the Seoul objective.

The 1st Cavalry—backed up with a 10-mile-long mass of troops and supplies was driving toward Chungju, 60 miles south-east of Suwon.

The 24th Division speared through Kumchon with 40 miles to go to reach Taejon, scene of its heroic action on the Kum River in July. Taejon is 70 miles south of Suwon.

PREHISTORIC DISCOVERY

Cordova Bay Yields Huge Elephant Tooth

A big tooth belonging to a prehistoric mammoth was discovered today in the Cordova Bay gravel pit operated by McIntyre and Harding.

Weighing several pounds, the molar of the hairy elephant which existed on this continent several thousands of years ago, was turned over to the Provincial Museum.

It measured about 10 inches long and five inches thick. Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, described discoveries of this kind as "rare" on Vancouver Island. "We have found remains of mastodons," he said, "but we have discovered few bones of mammoths."

The discovery did not mean that extinct elephant once roamed Vancouver Island, Dr. Carl said. His opinion was that the bones were carried in the ice field during the glacial period and deposited at Cordova Bay when the ice melted.

The mammoth was the only elephant who adapted himself to the cold climate.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

PURE COINCIDENCE

AS MY fellow-columnists have recently taken to illustrating their writings with self-portraits I hasten, at the outset of this effort, to assure any readers who may assume that I and a relative are pictured here, that any resemblance between me and either of them is purely coincidental—notwithstanding the fact that I have more than once been made the goat.

The subjects of the portrait which adorn this column are blue-blooded residents of Cobble Hill, aristocrats of Scottish lineage. And the slightly supercilious look of hoity-toity hauteur on their otherwise engaging countenances was evidently induced by my recent slighting allusions to the alleged eating habits of their kind.

GOATS AND GARBAGE

BEING ARISTOCRATS, it is natural they should have a taste for tasty literature, and in the pursuit of this highly commendable cultural habit they recently read my comments anent the proposal of a Kitchener, Ont., alderman to erect a civic piggery as one way of disposing profitably of the city's garbage.

In commending the suggestion to our own City Fathers I went one better, throwing out a hint that any piggery erected here as a reduction plant designed to utilize swill to reduce the tax mill should have a companion plant in the shape of a goatiery, wherein could be consumed those tin cans, old bedsteads and whatnot that come back to us—along with discarded bread and corn-cobs, on the waters after many days. Furthermore, that such piggery-goatiery might join the proposed statue at Fountain Circle.

THEIR REPLY

MY SUGGESTION evidently affronted those Cobble Hill blue-bloods, for this is what they wrote me, under dateline of Sept. 17:

"DEAR NANCY HODGES:

"We are of the opinion that you are too intelligent to think that we would be interested in a contaminated beach or the nasty rubbish on it, so have come to the conclusion that you must be very bored to have become so stereotyped.

"We are slightly Scotch and did not mind when you had your little jokes about the kill or the haggis but feel that you are becoming just a little too personal. We would suggest that you might get to know more about us nice little gals before you ever write about us again, so will see if we can have some literature sent for your perusal.

"The people we own are not so forgiving about this matter, but we think you might be quite nice so are sending you a picture of us hoping that you will like us.

"Yours sincerely,
"Campbell's Argyll and Campbell's Stirling."

PORKERS HURT

ALTHOUGH I haven't yet received the literature which will supposedly complete my conversion to a proper appreciation of the improved gastronomic standing of the denizens of the Upper 400 of the goat kingdom, I am quite prepared to apologize to Cobble Hill's four-footed Scots for hitting them below the belt.

In the meantime, I have received a rebuff from a pluperfect pigsty which looks as if I shall have to eat my words about porkers, too. The writer rather snootily reminds me, apropos of my accusation that porkies are garbage-eaters, that the same could be said of man!

PUBLIC RELATIONS

AS I DO NOT hang around garbage cans or garbage-crushing operations at any time, let alone at mealtimes, I can neither confirm nor deny that allegation. I can only venture the thought that if man is a garbage-eater, he lets an awful lot of Victoria refuse go a-begging on the beaches.

All in all, it looks as if, after this trouncing from the four-legged readers of my column, something will have to be done in the shape of an edifying job on improved public relations for goats and porkers—and I doubt whether I could do full justice to their evidently improved social and academic standing. In the meantime, the local garbage problem, which I thought I had solved, remains in statu quo—on the beach-head.

Four Down When Boat Capsizes

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—A small boat carrying four men on a pleasure fishing trip capsized in heavy breakers late Thursday and all aboard are presumed drowned.

The victims included William J. Kenworthy, 64, of Oakland, one-time prominent in the Pacific Coast League and a major league player a generation ago. The body was recovered from the surf.

Proceeding With Harbor Dredging

The first step in the dredging of Victoria harbor has been completed and second half of the operation is scheduled to get under way shortly, according to a letter received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce from R. W. Mayhew Fisheries Minister. The job completed takes in the harbor as far north as Johnson Street Bridge. The remaining area to be dredged is between Johnson and Point Ellice Bridges.

Red Harassing In Berlin Said Done By Design

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said Friday the revival of harassing tactics by the Communists and Russians in Berlin this week was a deliberate plot.

It had two aims, the American commandant said in an interview:

1. Shake the confidence of the West Germans.
2. Steam up the East Germans with an air of emergency to get out the vote for the Russian zone Oct. 15 elections.

Taylor said he had expected such moves for weeks. After a conference with the borough mayors of the West sectors, the general commented:

"They are staunch boys. They are not in the least disturbed by these tactics."

The Russians and their East German Communists teamed up this week to touch off a revived "cold war" affecting barge traffic from West Germany, personal safety of the West Berlin police force, the peace and order of the West sectors, the electric current supply from the East and the actual fixed sector border between the Russian zone and the British area.

Taylor said he hesitated to forecast any move by the Soviets but he commented:

WILL WIN ELECTIONS

"The National Front, of course, will 'win' the elections. The Russians may then extend some sort of sovereignty on paper to the Germans."

Out of such an action could conceivably emerge a demand by the East Germans that all occupation troops and officials quit Berlin. The Russians could accede plausibly to this without taking one soldier out of Germany, hind the Elbe River. West Berlin hind dthe Elbe River. West Berlin hind dthe Elbe River. West Berlin hind dthe Elbe River.

During the day the East-West rival forces made some headway in untangling the mess created by wholesale arrests of each others police forces.

Six Russian Zone Peoples' policemen arrested Monday when they blundered into the U.S. sector, carrying pistols, were convicted of possessing firearms illegally. The U.S. district court judge sentenced the six to the five days they already had served.

The West Berlin authorities also released 47 additional "Peoples' policemen" picked up two days ago as hostages for 25 West Berliners arrested in the Russian sector. Three of the West Berlin police were turned loose.

After the East Berlin officials learned that the six convicted "Vopos" were set free, they released the western police.

52 U.S. Warships Now In Mediterranean

LONDON (AP)—The United States Navy has 52 warships in the Mediterranean—its biggest concentration there since the Second World War.

An announcement from Atlantic and Mediterranean fleet headquarters in London said Friday 46 fighting ships and six fleet auxiliaries are east of Gibraltar. A naval authority said the vessels are mostly making friendly visits at major ports.

U.S. Jet Atlantic Flight Shows New Possibilities

England-Maine Trip In 10 Hours 1 Minute; Second Jet Comes Down At Labrador Base

LIMESTONE AIR FORCE BASE, Me. (AP)—An oil-spattered Thunderjet fighter plane here is proof that jets can hop the Atlantic in one swoop.

This one did it Friday, completing the world's first non-stop intercontinental flight by a jet aircraft.

A companion plane came to grief over Labrador, but its pilot parachuted safely. Col. David C. Schilling of the U.S. Air Force flew his single engine F-84 fighter 3,300 miles from Manston, England, to Limestone in 10 hours and one minute.

Head winds kept the ace of the Second World War from endangering the 1949 record set by a Pan-American Airways strato-liner which flew 3,565 miles in nine hours and 16 minutes with a 110-mile-an-hour tail wind.

Schilling said "everything went perfectly" on his flight.

Air force officials in Washington said his flying mate, Lt. Col. William D. Ritchie, had trouble refueling from a tanker plane over Goose Bay, Labrador, and apparently didn't get enough fuel to carry his ship through.

A rescue helicopter from Goose Bay picked up Ritchie unhurt. Both veteran pilots were on a mission to give jet refueling techniques a acid test.

Air refueling already is standard practice for bombers.

The F-84's took on jet fuel from flying tankers over Prestwick, Scotland; Reykjavik, Iceland, and Goose Bay by a British-developed method.

The jet pilot rams a nozzle projecting from his craft into a funnel-shaped nozzle that trails from the tanker plane.

Fuel starts flowing automatically. It stops when the fighter's tanks are filled.

Possibilities. Observers speculated the air-refueling exploits of Schilling and Ritchie have demonstrated how quickly "Thunderjets" could be rushed to Europe.

The jets can travel only about 2,000 miles with extra fuel tanks.

Ritchie and Schilling were unsuccessful earlier this week in an attempt at flying the Atlantic non-stop.

Trouble in one plane induced both to turn back Tuesday after an hour's flying.

May Abolish Veil

BELGRADE (Reuter)—Yugoslavia may shortly pass a law abolishing the veil for the 750,000 Moslem women in this country who have preferred to retain them. The head of the Moslem community, the Reis Ul Ulem Hadji Ibrahim, has come out officially against them.

Farm Wages Up

LONDON (Reuter)—Britain's Central Agricultural Wages Board, a government body, has boosted the minimum wage for male farm laborers to £5 a week—a boost of six shillings. Women workers will get £3 9s. instead of £3 4s.

U.S. SENATOR SOBS, ANOTHER COLLAPSES

Diehard Squad Fighting Hour After Hour Against Red Control Bill Vetted By Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—A die-hard squad of senators fought doggedly on, hour after hour, today against the Communist control bill denounced by President Truman. Their avowed hope was that word from the people will change the minds of colleagues bent on overriding the Truman veto.

The strategy was disclosed by Senators Herbert Lehman (Dem.-Lib.-N.Y.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.) as the Senate talk carried over from a night-long session.

Humphrey, however, conceded he had no real hope of upholding the veto. He figured no more than 15 senators would support Truman.

The long fight had taken its toll of casualties.

Senator William Langer (Rep.-N.D.) collapsed, gasping for breath, as he spoke against the measure. He was taken to hospital, suffering from exhaustion.

Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.-Ill.) was sobbing audibly as he finished a 1½-hour speech pleading with the Senate to back Truman.

Truman's veto message had used such words as "hysterical," "hasty and ill-considered" and "has said the measure would make a mockery of the Bill of Rights."

Restaurateur Speaks

The Canadian Restaurant Association was an educational, informative organization which worked to raise the standards of efficiency of member firms. Mrs. F. G. Montgomery, managing director of the organization, told members of the Victoria branch Friday.

It was primarily a service group to aid in ironing out individual problems of restaurant operators. Mrs. Montgomery said.

Ex-Commissioner Lauled At Dinner

The fine record of service of the B.C. Police force to citizens from the province's turbulent gold rush days up to the present day, was lauded by retired force officials Friday night.

Occasion was a dinner in the Pacific Club honoring Roger Peachey, M.C., retired commissioner of the provincial force.

Mr. Peachey and retired deputy commissioner Cecil Clark spoke of the reputation for loyalty, honest and faithful service the force had built up during its 92-year existence.

T. W. S. Parsons, who retired as chief in 1947, said the R.C.M.P. would be better for the inclusion of the former B.C. police officers.

Mr. Peachey was presented with a silver tray, Mr. Clark with a gold cigarette case.

Series Of Jail Breaks Reported, Denied In Que.

Two Prisoners Said To Have Escaped, Then Returned After Committing Series Of Thefts

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Reports—and denials—of a series of jail breaks from the century-old jail in this shipbuilding centre 50 miles down the St. Lawrence River from Montreal had residents wondering today.

Reports have it that two prisoners, one of them an accused murderer, broke out of the jail, committed a number of burglaries and then returned behind bars of their own volition. A third man is said to have broken out and failed to return.

Quebec Provincial Police had little to say. But earlier in the week two officers arrived here from Montreal, and it is believed they were sent to prevent further jail-breaks.

On the other hand, jail governor Lucien Bateau denied there had been a series of escapes and added he was "still on the job" despite reports to the contrary.

"I don't care what they say," he said. "I'm still on the job and I'll stay on until told otherwise." Mr. Bateau said that Donald Watso, 24-year-old Indian awaiting trial on a charge of murdering his grandfather and one of the three prisoners said to have been involved in the breaks, was "safely locked up behind bars here as he has been since first brought here six weeks ago."

The other prisoner, who like Watso, was reported to have escaped and then returned to his cell after committing burglaries in Sores, was identified as Gerard Robidoux, 26, awaiting transfer to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary near Montreal.

STILL AT LARGE

The third man, who is said to have escaped twice and is still at large, is Fernand Dube, 28-year-old laborer from Cap de la Madeleine, near Three Rivers.

Dube escaped two weeks ago on the day he was to appear in court on a suit-theft charge. Arrested five days later in Montreal on a drunkenness charge, he was transferred to Sores, where additional charges of jail-break and illegal possession of a revolver were laid against him. He escaped a second time.

The prisoners are said to have escaped each time through an unlocked door during the day and to have returned the same way during the night.

First Party At Normal School

Three of last year's graduates from the Victoria Provincial Normal School who are at present teaching in the city, returned to their "old stamping grounds" last Friday night to aid the present students in staging their first Friday evening social activity of the year.

The three graduates, Desmond Cavin, "Vic" Dawson and Albert Frye, supplied live music as they had done many times when they were students. They were aided by two of this year's students, John Buchko and Robert Miller, and by one of the present faculty members, Mr. H. Farquhar.

The program consisted of a singing, followed by a dance. Refreshments were served. It was estimated that over 200 students and their friends attended.

Jailed For Giving Indian Liquor

A 60-day jail term, with no option of a fine, was imposed against John Staton, no fixed address, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of supplying an Indian with gin.

Moscow Tries To Belittle Inchon Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Moscow has opened a new propaganda attack apparently aimed at belittling the significance of the Inchon landing by United Nations forces in Korea.

The Russians are taking the line that:

1. The drive on Seoul was necessary to "save face" after failure to break out of the South Korea bridgehead, and—

2. The operation proves the "weakness" rather than the strength of United States "imperialism."

U.S. officials reported this line is being broadcast by Moscow radio to listeners both in the Soviet Union and Europe.

Government monitors scanned recordings of the broadcasts for possible clues to Soviet-bloc intentions as the U.N. forces approach the 38th parallel, dividing line between north and south Korea. Thus far Moscow and the satellite capitals have been silent on that touchy point.

Defending What We Have

THE TOUGHENING OF CANADA'S sinews of war, now being vigorously carried out by the federal government, will have immediate effects here as local shipyards undertake construction projects announced yesterday. Contracts amounting to nearly $2½ million have been divided between Yarrows, Ltd., and Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd.—part of the more than $43 million Canada will spend on new naval vessels. The stimulation of local payrolls, not only among shipyard workers but in allied industries, will be an important factor in the community's life during the coming winter.

The argument may be advanced that we would be better employed in spending public funds on the creation of peacetime assets. There is much to be said for such a view. But the whole structure of such logic collapses before the paramount fact that unless we are prepared to defend what we have, and what we hope to have, there is little point in continuing our efforts in other directions. The treasures of our households would not last long if we had no walls to protect them. The armed services are the national walls behind which we seek to foster the things in which we believe—the culture and the opportunities, the progress and the freedoms which we wish our sons and daughters to enjoy.

It is sorry evidence of the jungle state to which the world has come that such protection should be necessary. But it was not of our choosing. Others have raised the threat. If we believe that what we have is worth having, then we must be ready to strike a blow for it if it is attacked. That very readiness may deter a potential foe. Riveting guns now may obviate machine guns later.

For Good Civic Government

VICTORIA'S CIVIC NON-PARTISAN League has adopted a more aggressive and commendable method this year than ever before to try to interest the general public in municipal affairs. It has circularized all its members—the people who supply the funds for the organization's activities with neither thought nor hope of personal benefit—enjoining them to canvass suitable potential aspirants for the various offices.

The message of the League is simple and brief. It intimates to its active membership a careful study of the requirements for civic service. Supposing, for example, a member has spotted in his own mind a citizen with all the qualifications for that service, he is asked to find out whether such a prospective nominee has a really intensive desire to further the interests of the community in which he lives, whether his economic or social training or inclinations provide him with the necessary mental equipment—and would he, "if his name were placed in nomination, be sufficiently well and favorably known to give him a good chance of election."

We take it that the League considers the personal pronoun "he" to mean "she" as well. This point is raised to record how well the feminine members associated with the municipal services have acquitted themselves during their terms of office.

Good luck to the Civic Non-Partisan League in its practical work for good government in this community!

The Wrong Occasion

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT GOVERNOR Thomas E. Dewey chose a United Nations dinner in New York Thursday night as the occasion for a bitter diatribe against the Russians.

Within the hearing of Russian officials, Mr. Dewey denounced their country in the most aggressive terms, making particular reference to "15 million slave laborers behind the Iron Curtain." When Mr. Vishinsky and his associates stalked out of the room, the speaker said that he was glad they had left.

This kind of talk, at a social function dedicated to international amity, will not be condoned by thinking people. As a demonstration of discourtesy, it is bad enough; but when one considers that it was made at a time when the Governor is in the thick of an election campaign, it becomes doubly suspect.

That Governor Dewey may have been speaking the truth; and that western nations regard Russia's U.N. tactics as abhorrent, is begging the question. We have not yet reached the stage when we must abandon common civilities when we are hosts to foreign countries. To hurl invective at international functions of this kind is to descend to the level of our enemies. We must set a higher standard if we are to win respect.

Christianity And Business

TWO DISTINGUISHED MONTREAL businessmen arrived on the West Coast this week-end, bringing with them messages of significance on the conduct of commerce in these troubled times.

Interviewed in Victoria, Mr. Henry Birks, president of the renowned jewelry house, which bears his family name, emphasized that faith in Christianity is inextricably linked with a nation's prosperity. It is, he said, impossible to build a family, a city, a province or a country on atheism.

Something of the same spirit was voiced by Mr. George W. Bourke, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company, when he said in Vancouver that Communism was "a deadly challenge to our cherished ideals." This system, he pointed out, was the greatest enemy of everything which life insurance has stood for through the centuries—freedom from want, the security of the family, protection of the aged, the right of the individual to strive and plan according to his resources and needs.

Faith in Christianity; the right of individual self-determination; these are the ideals upon which our Canadian way of life is based. The wise words of Messrs. Birks and Bourke cannot be too often repeated.

Waging War In Guise Of Peace Seen As Soviet Global Tactic

By BRUCE BLOSSAT from New York

THE world surely must be growing weary of transparent Russian lies. The latest batch was served up by Soviet Delegate Malik in trying to explain to the U.N. Security Council what a Russian plane was doing in Korean waters.

American planes shot down the Soviet bomber after it had opened fire on their air patrol. With customary Russian effrontery, Malik declared the Soviet craft unarmed and on a "training mission." He demanded full payment for the loss of ship and crew.

Moreover, he claimed the plane was just entering the limits of Port Arthur, Russian naval base in Chinese Manchuria west of Korea. That placed the scene 70 miles north and 85 miles west of the spot where U.S. flyers said they engaged the bomber.

About the only thing Malik didn't claim was that the U.S. had shot down one of its own planes by mistake. They have a Russian body complete with serial number to disprove that.

As if all this were not enough, on the same day Malik filed this phony protest he vetoed a U.S. resolution in the Security Council which called for localizing the Korean war. It was the 44th Soviet veto since the U.N. began.

Until the Korean war broke out, the attitude of many enlightened statesmen in the free world, including U.S. foreign affairs leaders, was that so long as Russia came to the U.N. and talked, peace was safe. Just give her a place to blow off steam, to try to justify her actions before the bar of world opinion, and everything would be all right.

The war has exposed the shallowness of this reasoning. Sir Gladwyn Jebb, astute British newcomer to the U.N., was the first to take public note of this fact. Jebb pointed out—and Malik's sickening August performance as council president made clear—that to the Russians a peace talk is a part of war strategy. It is not only a prelude to war, it is an accompaniment.

Peace talk is a means of dividing and confusing the opponents of aggression, of sowing doubt, of taking the starch out of the enemy's resolve. Hitler used the same technique but the Russians have vastly refined it.

RUSSIAN GAME

To the Soviet Union, peace talk is a logical extension of war. How long will the free nations go on pretending it is otherwise? How long will they play the Russian game?

Certainly the world is deceiving itself if it sees assurances of safety from war in Soviet peace gestures which are no more than one phase of the tactics of aggression.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE Deputy Chief of the Vancouver Police said this week that his force must continue to crack down on mail deliveries which break the traffic laws. The Postmaster has pointed out that it is impossible to deliver mail without violating between 250 and 300 traffic laws, and he now has authority to discontinue mail service unless some of this nonsense is mitigated, but the Deputy Chief says: "There's no other action we can take except to enforce the law. Any business house doing business here will have to obey the law." At least, the Daily Province claims those are his exact words, used directly to them.

The Post Office a business house? Shades of the Junior Chamber of Commerce! You don't want the C.C.F. calling our Postmaster General a tycoon, do you? (They've called the C.N.R. some nasty things, and it's state-owned too.) I had always imagined that the mails, while in transit, were the property of His Majesty, and were indeed called the Royal Mail. For the last month I have been wondering how a striking railwayman has the right to impede the Royal Mail. Now I'm wondering how cops have the right to do it either.

ELEGIES

EVER eager to swap epitaphs, I was delighted with those Nancy Hodges printed a week ago. My own favorite prose one I saw in Exeter Cathedral over some person who had "preached for over 40 years entirely without enthusiasm." When you consider the real meaning of enthusiasm, which is a kind of irresponsible drunkenness (en theos, possessed by a god), this epitaph is praise indeed, and is also praise for an age that distrusted enthusiasts. But read in a modern sense it is also very pleasing.

My mother once ran across the tomb of one Sir Tobias Sprott. . . . I think that was his name.

Here lies Sir Tobias Sprott Who always thought he owned a lot. He had a house and seven cars. But he never saw the sky of stars.

THE word car, of course, did not begin with the motorcar. Sir Tobias's epitaph may be unique, but he himself wasn't. But perhaps he did see the sky of stars. Many of us do without letting on and going all girlish about it. If Lady S. wrote the rhyme, she may have been a yearning type whom Sir T. had trouble in keeping quiet or even in keeping her at home. And if as seems not improbable the thing was written by a soulful son too noble-minded to make a penny and ashamed of the old man who kept him in comfort, one hopes he was poetic enough to give the seven cars away free. And the house, too, so that he could sleep under the seven stars. But one bets not.

BADGERNOSE: Why are you rambling on like this?

MYSELF: These are what we call reflections. You wouldn't know.

BADGERNOSE: Don't you think they are boring inconsequential drivel?

MYSELF: On the whole, no. Tell me, did you ever read gripping inconsequential drivel? Or boring pertinent drivel? Or boring inconsequential wit?

And now, with Brother Badger nose to another trough, let us revert to the most touching of all epitaphs, even if it is too famous to be printed again. It is in the cloisters of Westminster Abbey, and is simply "Jane Lister, dear child, 1688."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

A SOB-STORY in a mainland paper groans to think that the animals in the children's zoo are growing up and getting "all the faults common in grown-ups. They've become a little stubborn and selfish and indifferent to affection." If ever anything was ever upside-down in a cockeyed world, that sentiment is. For of course children are twice the mules and pigs and porcupines that grown-ups are. Just handle a few and see. But the honest young bachelor who wrote those tearful and hopeless words not only was unaware that every normal infant is a complete cad. He was unaware of the difference between vice and sin.

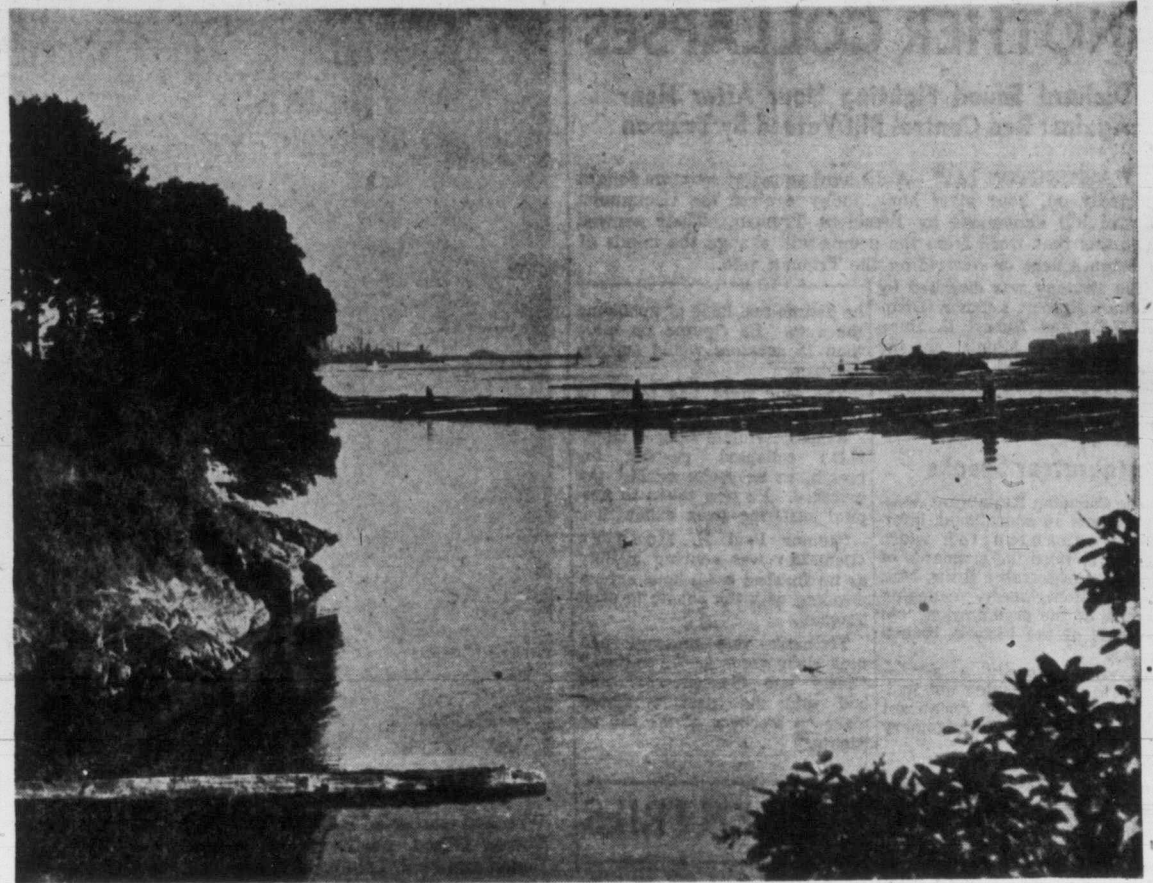

THE essential difference is that vice is unconscious; it becomes sin when the person involved knows that it is vice. As Kirsopp Lake says, the more animal your nature, the more likely you are to be vicious and the less likely to be sinful. Because children are unconscious, they cannot sin, and this leads sentimentalists and others of the ignorant to suppose children cannot be vicious. Everyone in the whole world harms himself and others, and is therefore vicious. But children are the worst. You can test this in half a tick by behaving like a four-year-old at your next grown-up party. You'll never be asked again. In fact, you'll be locked up, and quite rightly, too.

THE SHOPPERS

I HAVE been handed a poem, guaranteed verbatim, which was suddenly sung out impromptu by a boy aged five years and five months. With the object of making your flesh creep I print it here:

Heaven is just like a big store:
You can get anything you want there.
But when you go shopping in heaven
You don't get home for lunch, bang-bang!
No, you never get home for lunch.
People die in the mornings,
They die in the afternoons,
But they never get home for lunch.

As Our Readers See It

FOR THE RECORD

With everyone these days commenting on the wonderful summer we have had, isn't there some way we could get the average citizen on record with his praise so that he could be faced with it later on? Sure as shooting, after we've had a week or two of rain this fall, a lot of the present applauders are going to turn around and start the usual grumbling about the weather. They'll forget all about the fine days we've had. It's a pity their words cannot be taken down today so we would have the proof later.

WEATHER MAN.

FROM THE SIDELINES

We wish to say a word in praise of Victoria's sport fans who so often are criticized for apathy. After seeing the crowd that turned out here to cheer on the Shamrocks we have got the impression that this is a very good sports town. And we're not forgetting that in times past the same people have given their support to basketball and hockey teams that brought fame to the city. It just goes to prove that if teams will give the crowd what they pay to get—that is, good sportsmanship, ability in play and a touch of excitement—there will be no trouble in getting an audience, and a paying audience at that. So a pat on the back for Victoria's sports fans. May they always have good teams to cheer.

TWO VISITORS.

NO MEDDLING

Now that those long giraffe-necked lamps have been tried out on Yates Street for a while, I hope the City Council will decide that they are not for Victoria. If they don't decide it, I'm sure that all the women who pass along there at night will. It will take a lot more than make-up to balance the effect of that horrible light on their skins. It makes everyone look as though they had just come out of a hospital, or were just heading for one. Let's not lose our lovely cluster lights in favor of any such monstrosities. If the clusters cost a little more to maintain, it's well worth it. We didn't kill the hanging baskets idea just because it cost money. We felt, and rightly so, that it was a good investment. The same with the cluster lights. Let's not meddle with things until we spoil them.

A New Estimate Of Our World

By FRANK S. MORLEY

WHY do you read books? is the incredible question I have been asked more than once. I am a lover of books. Only a good friend is more precious to me than a good book. Books bring me the companionship of men who have found truth, the truth that unlocks doors to the good life.

Take for example a radiant book I have just read—"New World's Emerging" by Earl Parker Hanson (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, New York). Here is sheer exhilarating adventure. Hanson breaks down "walls of the mind." He cuts clean across our pessimism, slashing to pieces some of our most hoary stupidities.

CLOSED MIND

The greatest enemy of mankind is the closed mind. Hanson opens our minds. He does not believe war to be inevitable. So far from overpopulation being a destructive factor, it may be that "overpopulation is at the root of all human progress."

Hanson ridicules the idea that white men cannot live in the tropics without moral and physical deterioration. He shows that the tropical climate is man's natural climate which he strives to create artificially when he doesn't live in it naturally. So far from the Amazon Basin being a vast uninhabitable jungle, "it is as varied as the United States and possibly as rich in the quantity and variety of its natural resources."

Hanson gives a glorious picture of that mighty river, carrying one-fifth of all the world's running fresh water, with its 1,100 tributaries, containing a virtually untapped empire some 2,700,000 square miles in extent, or almost as large as continental United States. The Amazon Basin has not only vast forests, limitless sources of various raw materials, but also great prairie areas for cattle culture.

The author demands that the entire field of our racial concepts change. He has great admiration for native people. History has no more tragic tale than the exploitation and inhumanity practiced by the white man on the Indian and Negro.

Hanson believes in self-government. The Island of Puerto Rico "provides the most dramatic example of the present world-wide breakdown of colonialism." Latin American countries are emerging from a suppressive colonialism into democracy and self-control. "A hundred and thirty-five million Latin Americans have only just started to remake their nations." Determined to avoid exploitation, they must have foreign capital. So far from the day of the capitalist being done, only a small fraction of the world, say 1% of the earth's surface, has a surplus of capital.

Not only does this explorer find a good life possible in the tropics. He doesn't find anybody trying to emigrate from Iceland. This country has had a spectacular growth since it achieved home rule in 1904. Industry and foreign trade have boomed. Roads have been built and education advanced. In 1927 an Icelandic engineer published a scheme for heating the city of Reykjavik with natural hot water. He was ridiculed, but today the entire city is so heated!

GREATER FUTURE

Mr. Hanson reasons that if a mere handful of Icelanders, sunk in medieval stagnation and without financial resources, could achieve so much in half a century, surely Alaska with 14 times the area and with an equally good climate, but with infinitely greater and more varied resources and backed by the world's greatest industrial nation, can have a still greater future.

To those who think that all exploration ceased with Columbus, it is well to be reminded that there is more geographical exploration today than ever in man's history. I cannot tell you all the ideas of this book. It is thrilling reading and will set your minds to roaming and call your hearts to adventure.

HIPPOLITICAL WORLD

Dubouche Telegraph Herald

It's comforting to know that world power politics stops at the zoo gate. Olga, a lady hippo from Leipzig in the Russian zone of Germany, has been allowed to join a boy friend named Knautschke in the West Berlin zoo, lying in allied occupation territory.

When Germany was divided between east and west, all the female hippos were trapped in the Soviet zone. On the other hand, Knautschke, the only male, remained in the west. This boded ill for the future of German hippos.

Even the Russians recognized that people get a little fun out of zoos. So Olga has been allowed to pass the zonal check points with full diplomatic privileges. There's no iron curtain in the animal world.

FINE DISTINCTION

Toronto Globe and Mail

Saskatchewan's C.C.F. premier recently expressed satisfaction that private companies were moving into his province to develop its oil wealth. The prairie Socialists evidently believe that this is no job for the state, but requires the initiative and risk capital that free enterprise can best supply.

In somewhat less hazardous fields of industry, they are in a dubious frame of mind about the relative merits of the rival economic systems.

FLOWERS ON THE LIVING

Ottawa Journal

Men of discrimination are supposed to select their favorite flower and wear it with an air as they go about their business. If this is so, men of discrimination are as rare as orchids.

Still, it may be too soon to condemn mankind as clods content with color-clashing tie and pants of startling hue. The possibility arises they were only soft-hearted and hated to pluck a flower only to see it wither and die in a button-hole, wasted on the desert air of commerce.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where a professor in London predicts that it won't be long before people will be in the habit of buying spare parts for their ailing bodies. Medical science will make it possible to put eye corneas, new ears, kid-neys—maybe even hearts—on the counter for customers who need replacements. It's been done a little already, of course. Eyes, blood, skin, bone and other oddments have been transplanted from one body to another with complete success. It may be only a matter of time before hospitals have anatomical parts clinics, just like garages have their automotive parts departments. You can imagine the rush there'd be on bargain days: 'Ears, regular $95 per pair, now $89.50 (plus tax).' Going down!"

"I don't suppose," said the Elevator Man, "there ever existed a human being who hasn't had in mind at one time or another a few improvements he could make in the old frame. Many a man has wished the knees were a little straighter, the muscles a little bigger, the nose a little shorter, or the waist a little less. And women! They're hardly out of the cradle before they're growing curvy where no curvy grew before; raising or lowering brow lines, waist lines and hairlines; becoming blonde, brunette, or even red or blue overnight; changing hips, waists, complexions and other characteristics at a moment's notice. The professor's idea will be a gold mine if it ever gets underway. Main floor!"

"It's funny, though," said the Elevator Man, "how we worry so much more about parts and accessories for our bodies than for our minds. We're concerned because Johnny has such big ears but we don't bother so much about whether he has oversized prejudices. Some thug with twisted legs gets them straightened, but how about his twisted mind? We spend money on a muddy complexion but how about a muddy intellect? We might extend the professor's idea a little. 'Get your new brain here, folks. Highest values on trade-ins!'"

THE HOME GARDEN

Don't Be Shy About Entering Fall Show

By JACK BEASTALL

One of the feature attractions of the gardener's year will take place at the end of next week.

It is the annual "Fall Show" of our oldest gardening group, the Victoria Horticultural Society, an affair which hundreds of home gardeners will attend.

The educational value of these shows has previously been stressed, but today I want to mention the exhibiting angle. During the course of a year I visit many gardens and it is a rare occasion to find one devoid of exhibition material. In most cases the owner is afraid to make an entry because he lacks experience, and the experience he needs can only be gained by participation.

The record of the old-timers seems to scare the novice, but comparison of entries shows that the older plants lack quality, which stacks the odds in favor of the beginner. It is quite common to see two new exhibitors in a class carry off first and second prize against competitors who have shown as long as 20 years.

OPEN TO ALL

The hardest part of showing is to make the initial entry. Once that is done, the rest is easy. Many societies limit participation to members of their group, with possibly one or two classes for non-members. This is not so with the horticultural group; their shows are open to all who are interested in gardening.

Some consider these shows to be a little game played by a group of addicts. But shows have a far greater importance. First, they are the joint effort of the entire district, and the more who participate the greater their effect. Secondly, they are the show window of the community, where the horticultural possibilities grouped for all to see. Thirdly, the home gardener who exhibits will learn the finer points of the plants he grows, which gives him greater interest in his garden and enables him to increase its quality and beauty. And this, in turn, improves the community as a whole.

Entries for this show must be made by Wednesday next, and I have on hand some prize lists which are available for the asking. Those of us who work on these shows often hear a visitor remark: "I've got better stuff at home!" Then why not exhibit? You will get greater pleasure and deeper satisfaction if you do.

Canada Plans To Parallel U.S. Materials Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Official sources said here the government has decided to parallel "in effect" but not in "in detail" all controls introduced in the United States in the last few weeks.

The policy, similar to that installed by Canada during the Second World War, has twin aims, an informant said.

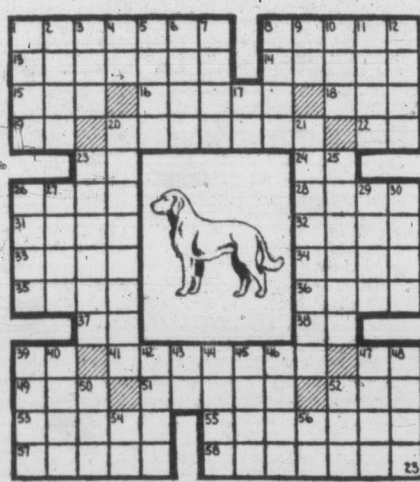

One is the aim of fighting inflation and diverting essential commodities in an orderly manner into defence production.

The other is to make certain that U.S. manufacturers do not use Canada as a "back door" to obtain supplies which, because of controls, they could not obtain from producers in their own country.

In line with this policy, the government already has obtained legislation from Parliament which gives it the right to curb installment buying and control the price and allocation of any commodities considered "essential" in the country's defence.

ANSWERS TO PREVIOUS PUZZLES

New York Mayor Declines To Offer Apology To Vishinsky

NEW YORK (AP) — Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri said he had refused to apologize for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's remarks that led Soviet delegates to walk out of a dinner Thursday night.

Impellitteri said United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie had asked him to apologize in the name of the city.

The city was host at the dinner for U.N. delegates at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Impellitteri said:

"I told Mr. Lie that it was not my right nor my power to censor anything the Governor of New York may wish to say."

The walkout was led by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky and chief U. N. delegate Jacob Malik.

Dewey had just begun reading a prepared speech.

In the third paragraph he accused the Soviet Union of keeping 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 people "in slave labor."

Vishinsky, followed by his aides, arose, strode off the dias and left the room without a word.

Impellitteri was at the dinner as host and gave the address of welcome.

Duncan Kinsmen Install Officers

New officers of the Duncan Kinsmen Club, installed at a recent ceremony at Genoa Bay Lodge, are A. H. Heaslip, president; Norman MacPherson, vice-president; Robert Harvey, secretary; Howard Filmer, treasurer; J. A. Strachan, registrar; Jeffrey Dyson, Jack Peterson, and Hugh Linnell, directors.

Kinnettes installed in office were Mrs. Marie Elvins, president; Mrs. Peggy Filmer, vice-president; Mrs. June Strachan, Secretary; Mrs. Isobel Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Lillian Linnell, registrar.

MOTORIST FINED

A $35 fine and a license suspension was imposed against Wilmer C. Gustavson, Colwood P.O., by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court Friday. Gustavson pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge resulting from an accident at Cook and Johnson Streets Sept. 18.

Judgment In By-Law Appeal Reserved

Appeal Court Friday reserved judgment in the appeal of the city against a judgment of County Court Judge H. H. Shandley who ruled that the city's Trade Licence By-Law of 1949 was invalid.

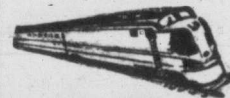

The validity of the by-law was contested by J. R. McIlree, Victoria barrister. Fees were raised from $25 to $75 for lawyers under the new by-law. During the entire court proceedings, which began last spring in police court, McIlree did not once appear in person. He was represented by counsel.

The city was represented in Appeal Court by Alfred Bull, K.C.; D. M. Gordon, K.C. appeared as counsel for McIlree.

Reds Charge Sabotage

BERLIN (Reuter) — Two foremen were killed and two seriously injured Friday in fighting widespread fires in the Soviet zone town of Aschersleben, Brandenburg. The East German press charged that the fires, in a warehouse and grain mill, were started by "saboteurs in the pay of West German sabotage organizations."

C.C.L. Expected To Move For Ousting Red Unions

Convention Probably Will Extend Powers To Its Executive To Toss Out Communists

WINNIPEG (CP)—Communism's voice may be shut off from the national councils of Canadian labor next week. Almost-coincident moves of the Dominion's two big labor congresses—one accomplished and the other expected—will leave Reds with no national forum.

The moves:

1. Action of the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada last week in barring Red-officered or Red-dominated unions from membership in the T.L.C.

2. Expected action of the 360,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor here next week authorizing its executive to toss out Communist-dominated unions.

Both measures go far beyond any previous action taken by Canadian unions against Reds.

In the Canadian Congress of Labor, which will open its annual convention here Monday, it may mean several organizations—unless they clean house—will be thrown out along with the Red-influenced United Electrical Workers.

DUES ISSUE

The U.E.W., now under suspension by the congress executive council, is due to get the final boot at the convention next week. At odds with the C.C.L. leadership for years over the leftist policies of its leaders, it eventually was suspended 10 months ago on the issue of non-payment of its per capita dues.

It will get the axe next week in the same way as it was applied by the 1949 convention to the Communist-influenced International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

In both these cases constitutional questions apart from that of Communism have been employed.

But for the future the C.C.L. in the same vein as the T.L.C. moved last week in Montreal, is going to use the direct issue of Communism to give the heave to left-wing unions.

The C.C.L.'s executive council, it was learned, will sponsor a resolution empowering it to suspend any union considered to be "dominated" by Communists. The measure is certain to pass the convention, expected to have an anti-Red majority of about 750 to 50.

RIGHT OF APPEAL

The new measure will not constitute an outright guillotine for suspected Red unions, for they will have the right of appeal to the next convention. However, C.C.L. conventions usually back up the decisions of their executive.

Apart from the electrical workers several unions are expected to find themselves in hot water when and if the anti-Red edict passes. Topmost of these would be the Red-run Fur and Leather Workers' Union, which has about 5,000 members and constitutes the loudest left-wing voice in the congress now that those of the electrical workers and the mine-mill union are removed.

Others that might be in trouble would be the British Columbia Shipyard Workers' Federation, which has 3,000 members, and the Maritime Marine Workers' Federation of the east coast, a smaller group.

WANT CURB ROUNDED

Building supply firm of Stewart and Hudson in a letter to City Council has asked that the curb at the southwest corner of Dundas Street and Gorge Road be rounded as other corners in the vicinity recently have been done.

The request will be considered by the city's public works committee and the city engineer.

Jewelry Firm Celebrating 40th Birthday

One of Victoria's oldest jewelry firms, Little and Taylor, is celebrating 40 years of continuous service to citizens of Victoria.

In 1910 Little and Taylor was founded at 611 Fort Street, by the late M. J. Little and Howard Taylor.

Following the fire which demolished the David Spencer store that year, a move was made to 617 Fort Street and in 1924 a further move was made to the present location at 1209 Douglas Street.

Today, the firm is headed by T. M. Little, son of one of the founders.

An expanded service based on traditions established by the founders, includes a factory room where individual pieces of jewelry and special orders in gold, silver and platinum are manufactured; an engraving department, where intricate patterns are produced with ease and a watch department.

The firm, noted for its beautiful jewelry, has had the distinction, since 1940, of being the only registered jeweler of the American Gem Society in the city.

The employees of Little and Taylor, many of them of long-standing service with the firm, include Harry Whittingham, Al Watson and Vic Powley in the manufacturing department; Arnold W. Trevett, engraving; Maurice Nolin and E. J. Jordan, watch department; Miss F. M. Smith and George Titterton, assisted by Mrs. E. Browne and Mrs. B. Clair, sales staff, and Miss A. Harness, credit.

Whittingham and Trevett are World War One veterans and Powley and Jordan, Titterton, Nolin, veterans of World War Two.

T. M. "Tommy" Little continues to carry out the policy of the founders, "to represent goods exactly as to their quality; to sell to those who know and to those who don't know values at a uniform fair price; to fulfill all guarantees; to deserve the confidence of the public by always giving satisfaction."

Changes Stand On Telephone Dialing

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has reversed its opinion regarding the possibility of changing Victoria's telephone operation to a five digit system instead of the present exchange letter and four digits. Earlier this year they suggested a change.

Brent Murdoch of the civic affairs group stated at a luncheon meeting Friday that expense involved in such an undertaking was not warranted by the inconvenience the present set-up imposed.

Dorothy Archer, 17, is going to U.B.C. for advanced studies as dietician. Command is awarding five scholarships.

Coroner Sharply Criticizes Transport Dept. Inspectors

VANCOUVER (CP)—An "incomplete" verdict was returned Friday by a coroner's jury following an inquest into the Monday plane crash off Bowen Island that claimed two lives.

At the same time, Coroner John D. Whitbread, M.D., lashed out at the federal Department of Transport on grounds of withholding vital information as two department investigators subpoenaed to testify on the crash said they had not finished their report and when they did, it would be submitted to Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier at Ottawa.

"This looks like contempt of court," the coroner said angrily. "We have two dead men here and this court has as much right to all the information as your department."

He said why the information was withheld would be investigated.

The verdict said in part that Nathaniel J. Lebas, 61-year-old timber cruiser of Vancouver, and Pilot Allan N. Beach, 23, met death in the crash, the one due to a chest injury and the other by drowning.

Due to inability to obtain evidence from Department of Transport inspectors and the inability of obtaining access to the place ourselves, we find it impossible to arrive at any conclusion as to whether there was any other contributing cause to the accident.

Nor could witnesses say why Beach had attempted to fly under the fog bank. The two survivors of the crash said he seemed to have the plane under control and be calm.

The plane was attempting to land when it hit the rocky coast of the island.

HIGH SCHOOL CORNER

By STU DENT

Organization of extra-curricular activities were in the initial stages at most of Victoria's high schools last week.

Wednesday Oak Bay High seniors elected Joyce Main as secretary of their student council, Allan Thackray as treasurer, Richy Pollard boys' sport rep, and Ann Maclean as girls' sport rep. Class reps will have been elected by next Friday enabling the council to hold its first meeting that day. Items expected to be dealt with are the budget, school sweaters, the pre-lim party and the Halloween dance which will be the opener for the year.

Mount Douglas student council will soon be making arrangements for the annual country fair. The fair provides most of the money for operation of the council. Students are expected to work hard for this event which brings in the cash to equip teams and defray expenses of other activities.

Next Friday evening from 9 to 12 Esquimalt High's first dance of the year will be held in the Fraser Street Hall. General admission will be 50 cents single, but members of the class with the nearest perfect sale of activity cards will receive a special price of 40 cents. After having the summer to save money you boys should be able to afford the expense of a date for the dance. It's a sure thing that the girls won't ask you.

During the same day, grade 9 students will undergo an initiation into the ways of high school life. Plans are secret at present. Juniors, however, should look forward to next Saturday when they will have no more worries about their initiation.

Victoria High's student council was completed Friday with the election of four grade 12 reps to enable the first meeting to be held next Tuesday. Workouts of the Totems basketball team attracted about 25 prospective players. This number will have to be cut down to 11 or 12.

The Vic High cross-country club will hold twice weekly workouts for the next month. Competition from outside the school will be provided at least once every month until the opening of the track season in April. Meets are being arranged by coach Gordon Hartley with Royal Roads, Navy, University School and Oak Bay High.

Mount View's senior soccer team has shown quite a bit of spirit at regular practices. It is expected that prefects will soon be making their appearance in the corridors of the school. At a meeting of the student council yesterday the formation of committees to look after details of council activities was considered.

Around the Hi-Ways: Senior girls at Mt. Douglas are spending the lunch hour teaching juniors to dance in preparation for the class party on Sept. 29. Of a class of 47 in grade 9, the present 15 seniors are all that remain; 15 per cent of Mt. Doug students go steady. Excitement ran high at Mt. Doug Monday when the fire alarm was mistakenly rung instead of the period bells. . . . Band to be featured at Esquimalt's first dance is the Continentals. They have some swell dance arrangements prepared just for the high school crowd. . . . Oak Bay's first dance will probably have recorded music

STOP ENGINE, BRAKE CAR, POLICE WARN

Motorists who allow their cars to stand unattended without first applying the emergency brake and stopping the motor, are going to appear before the magistrate, city police traffic officials warned today.

Motor Vehicle Act provides that motorists must take this safety action. Police crackdown is due to the fact there have been five accidents caused in the last month because motorists did not apply brakes and stop engines.

with a 35c admission price. . . .

New editors of Vic High's Camosunet are Jean Webster and Lawrence Mobley. Its price has been increased to 50 cents for the year and worth every cent of it. You can expect the first issue before Oct. 15. Vic High's inter-house swim gala will be Oct. 6, the inter-school Oct. 20. In spite of this the first Friday night basketball game will be that night. Postponement to Oct. 27 would delay the season too much. Opposition at the first game will be the ex-grads. Students hope the staff at Vic High will provide intermission entertainment when they sponsor the school's first dance.

Bronze Plaque Will Honor W. Henderson

A ceremony recalling the early days of Victoria and Oak Bay will take place at Oak Bay United Church Sunday evening when a bronze plaque honoring William Henderson will be unveiled by his widow, Mrs. C. D. A. Henderson, 2150 Oak Bay Avenue.

Although Mr. Henderson died in 1931, he is remembered as one of the founders of Oak Bay municipality, and its first elected reeve. He was resident architect for the Dominion Government in Victoria from 1897 until his retirement.

An outstanding Mason, Mr. Henderson was past grand master of Masonic lodges of B.C., and it was as a Mason that he laid the cornerstone of Oak Bay United Church in 1914. He was also the church architect, and a pioneer member.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, in 1837, Mr. Henderson first came to Canada in 1857, returned to Scotland four years later, and came back to Canada permanently in 1872. He worked for the Dominion Government in Winnipeg, Battleford and Regina before coming to Victoria in 1896.

Dr. W. W. McPherson will conduct the service, to be attended by members of Henderson Masonic Lodge named for Mr. Henderson, in full regalia.

PREACHED NEW LIFE

Paul Told Western World 'Old Things Passed Away'

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
That was what Paul, above all things, was—a great Christian. He was the first, after his Master, to look upon our upon humanity with world-wide vision, and a clear, deep, and profound faith in "the glorious gospel of the grace of God," and a passion to declare the good news of that gospel to all men, everywhere, to the very ends of the earth.

As it was, he covered a great part of the world of his time, for he was an indefatigable traveler, and had he lived long enough, he would undoubtedly have accomplished the fullness of his mission. What he began, in heading westward, and bringing Christianity to Europe, others have continued, in a great line of earnest missionaries. But we owe a great debt to Saint Paul, for, through him, first of all, Christianity came to us.

The faith and vision that sent this determined and heroic man to so great a mission, he himself has very clearly defined. Said he (II Corinthians 5:17): "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." It was in that faith in the power of the gospel of Christ to bring such new life to any man, that he conceived and carried out his mission.

grace, was for Paul the great established fact in history, around which centred all his purpose and being.

Peter said that Paul wrote some things hard to understand, and some of us might be confused as was Peter by Paul's occasional long and abstruse arguments.

But to all who would know the real Paul, and appreciate his greatness, apart from the more difficult passages, I commend your attention to a few among the many clear, plain, wonderful things that Paul wrote, such as: I Corinthians 1:13; Romans 12:1; I Corinthians 3; Ephesians 3:14-21; Romans 8:33-39. Search the many others out for yourself.

Hope To Reduce Plane Cancellations

If an instrument landing system were installed at Patricia Bay it would cut Trans-Canada Airlines winter cancellations in half, reported the aviation committee to Chamber of Commerce directors Friday.

In the six-month period from September, 1949, to February, 1950, 319 flights out of approximately 1,800 to Vancouver were canceled due to weather conditions. It was stated that at least 200 of these flights could have been completed with an instrument landing system in operation.

It was decided to put the matter into Fisheries Minister Mayhew's hands to take up with the proper authorities.

By BILL WALKER

Bill Court, 30-year-old assistant professional out at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, is one who is rather dismayed over the lack of interest in golf in the city.

Bill holds the view that more exhibition matches and golf clinics for the youngsters is the only way that the sport can reach the level of popularity now being enjoyed on the mainland.

Walker

Back from the B.C. Open where he would like to forget his scores—but fresh from a long talk with Marine Drive's Stan Leonard, who has just about emptied the cash well in the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association's yearly pot of gold, Bill says that Leonard is only too willing to come to Victoria for exhibition matches.

And as far as Bill is concerned, the sooner the better. His idea is either to have Leonard and three other ranking mainlanders here at Colwood for an exhibition or, failing that, have Leonard and possibly Bill Mawhinney meet two of the city's best.

Leonard would undoubtedly be a great drawing card, as he is definitely Canada's No. 1. No one will dispute this fact. "And it's a real pleasure to see him play," says Court.

Bill's been at Colwood for seven months, coming as aide to Fred Burns from Nanaimo where he was attached for two years. He became a pro in 1946 after being paralyzed the previous year. A local born and bred, Bill's prime interest is in the game and its furtherance. Even on his off days, he can usually be found redecorating Colwood's once shabby pro shop.

A recent returnee to the city but so far not to the links is Charlie Carnegie, Jr. He's back from Edmonton to make his home out Happy Valley way. Charlie was literally "brung up" at Colwood where his brogish father, Charlie, Sr., has been the keeper of the course for 30 years come next May. The senior member of the Carnegie clan—and that's a clue to his "homeland"—wasn't always in, rested in greener greens and divotless fairways. He took up his present travail after spending the time from his emigration to this country in 1907 to 1921 working on the railroad, in the mines and the construction industry.

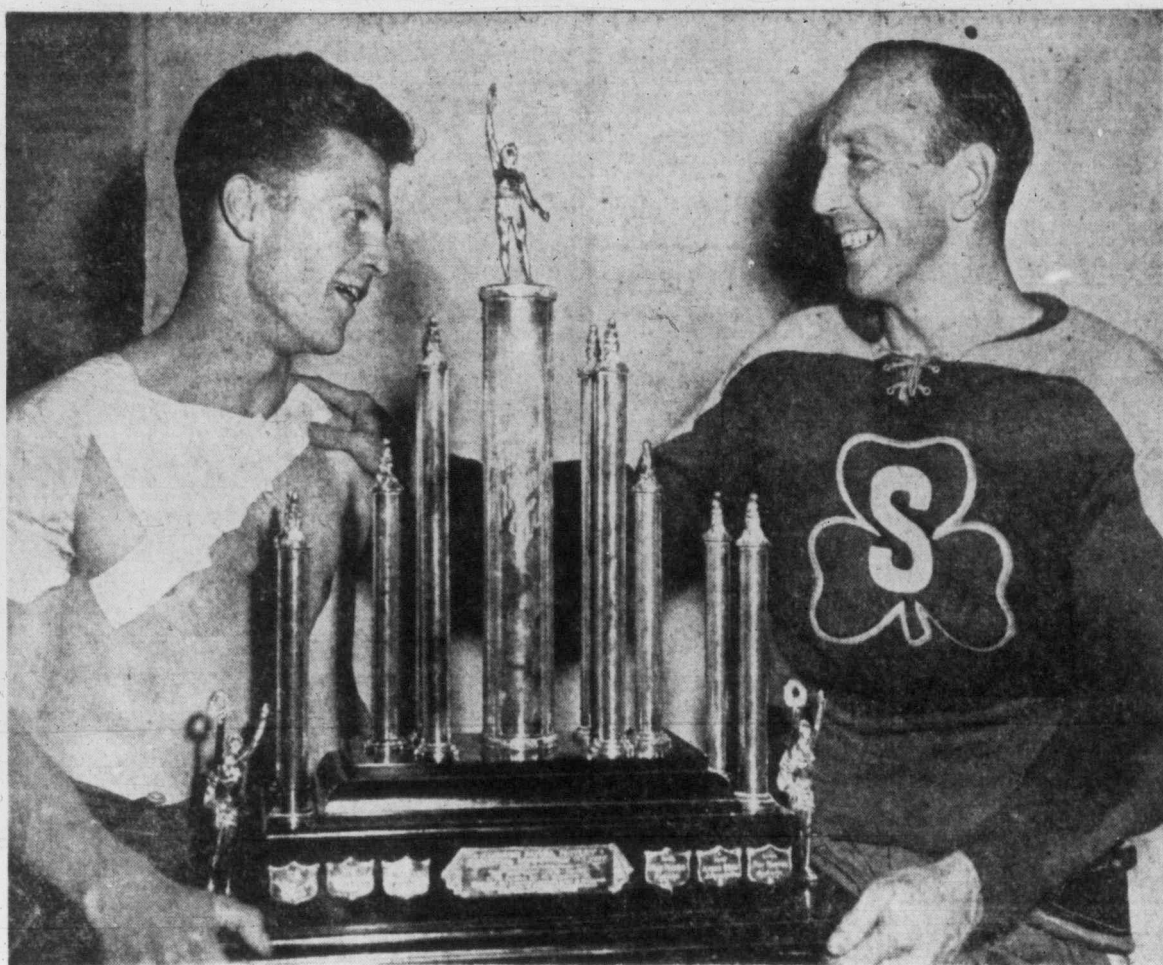

But he's happy in his work though you've got to know Charlie to appreciate his humor. That sour look is only skin-deep.

Charlie was reminding us of the annual Greenkeepers' "do" slated for Colwood, Oct. 3. "And don't forget to come to the banquet afterwards," he said. "We're going to try and have former premier 'Duff' Pattullo on hand to present his trophy. Tommy Thorpe is the present handicap champion and Charlie Smith the open king."

Jack Skellern, who was down in Seattle last week for the P.N.G.A. meeting, says the made-over Seattle Golf Club holds no terrors for Harry Givens, the Sound City king of swag. "Harry was just six under par in one of those friendly matches," says Jack. He also reports that P.N.G.A. president Don Corbett of Spokane, host city for the 1951 tourney, says the inland empire will show some of their better golfers at the event. "So far you've only heard of Ray Weston and Al Mengert," he is said to have quipped.

Breezing around Colwood in a practice round and just to show he hasn't forgotten the old home-stand, Charlie Junior Carnegie had a 33 going out and 37 coming home. Visitors from Aberdeen, Washington, Friday, were John and Donna Tracy while from Oakland came Mr. and Mrs. Kleven.

The changeover at Colwood didn't last long. Bill Halkett will be pleased to learn. The 10th is again the 10th and the great experiment is better forgotten. The members who instituted the move were the first to admit their mistake. . . . Orchids to Freddie Burns, he's better known as the old Macaulay pro though he's now based at Colwood for six years, and Bill Court for their challenge for the buttons.

League Trophy Winners Exchange Congratulations

Shamrock forward Edwin Popham, with injured shoulder heavily taped, was recipient of Ed Bayley Rookie of the Year Award at Memorial Arena last night during half-time intermission of game between Rocks and Adanacs.

With Popham is playing coach Arnold Ferguson, who earlier had been awarded Maitland Trophy as league's Most Valuable Player. Ferguson was further honored last night with Shamrock most valuable player award.

SPORT WEEK

By JOHN LARDNER

IT'S NO SECRET that the Philadelphia Phillies have been scouting one team and another in the American League, with a view to winning the first Philly World Series victory in all history. That's the trouble. It's no secret. Philadelphia espionage is as subtle as Primo Carnera's feet.

"Usher," said George Earnshaw, of G-2, as he stole noisily into Yankee Stadium one day recently, "kindly conduct me to a seat behind home plate, where I can get a sound line on the characteristic idiosyncracies of your pitchers and hitters, if any."

The Yankee management, thus alerted, told Mr. Earnshaw that he would have to take his chances with the common ticket-buyers. It was a restatement of an old Yankee policy: Visiting spies are on their own. The Yanks have a romantic attitude toward espionage. They feel that secret agents should earn their pay. One of their own, Lefty Gomez, scouting the Giants in 1936, wore false whiskers and blue eyeglasses in the Polo Grounds. He had been in his seat a full 30 seconds before the imposture was detected. Bill Terry, the Giant manager, at once instructed his hitters in batting practice to aim at Gomez and knock the whiskers down his throat.

It's not surprising that the Philly spy service lacks tradition and savor. The Phils have not scouted a World Series opponent in 35 years. Their players have gone from the cradle to the tomb under the impression that the baseball season always ends on the first Sunday in October, officially, and four weeks earlier, mathematically. Then, too, the scouting job this year would have been a tough one even for an experienced world series outfit.

American Leaguers Get Cute

The Yankees? Earnshaw, of G-2, knew that he could write a three-volume book on the Yankees and still see it end up in Eddie Sawyer's wastebasket. Detroit? Boston? Who, a week ago, could tell? So the Philly underground has fanned out over half a continent in the past month, seeking desperately to learn (1) what the enemy had, and (2) who he was.

All this is a tribute, naturally, to American League security methods. The teams over there, who formerly won their pennants on Sept. 1, have grown cute to a point bordering on chaos. And just possibly the National League, if it knows its history, prefers it that way. It may well be better to scout three scrambling ball clubs, even at today's union scale for spies, than one stand-out club which will probably strew your brains on the pavement no matter what you do or how much you think you know.

My antiquarian mind wanders back to a day in 1910, when Johnny Kling, shrewd catcher for the Chicago Cubs, stopped by at the billiard-and-betting parlor of the late Jack Doyle, in New York. He was on his way to Philadelphia to scout Cornelius Mack's Athletics of that year. It was an ambiguous assignment. The A's had clinched the pennant way back in the summertime.

"How do you find the series?" asked Mr. Doyle politely. "We won't lose a game," said Mr. Kling, who represented a pretty strong ball club, featuring Tinkers, Evers, Chance, and others of repute.

Must Forget New Wonders

A few days later the spy touched at Doyle's, on his way home from enemy territory. "How do you like the series now?" asked Doyle. "We won't win a game," said Mr. Kling bleakly. The Athletics were apt to have that affect on people at first sight, and at second sight, too. But the Cubs did win one game in 10 innings. The rest of the time, they just watched the Collinses, Bakers and Barrys wheel around the bases.

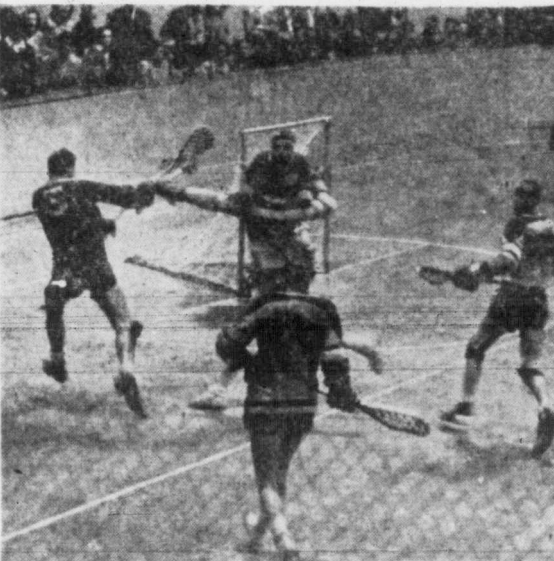

The Phils this year will not be up against a great team; and they themselves will have a sounder team on the field than the last Philly group to find its way into a world series. The Phils of 1915 had the peerless Alexander, but not, relatively speaking, much else. The present Phils may win—if they can keep their heads while gazing, like stout Cortez (ne Balboa), at the new wonders beyond the old horizon, including a broad, sparkling payday in mid-October. COLWOOD GOLF

Mrs. W. H. Lawson took silver division laurels in the par competition at Colwood Golf Club this week with a score of 3 down. Mrs. H. Damaske won bronze honors, 1 up.

TOMMY DRUCE OF SHAMROCKS came close on this try but ball went wide of Gordy Pogue in goal when Ted Mossell of Adanacs deflected shot with his stick. In foreground are Jake Proctor (6) and John Douglas (4) of Adanacs. Jack Northrup of A's and Len Scott of Shamrocks are on far side of goal. Adanacs won game 8 to 5, to take three-to-one lead in best-of-seven Intercity Lacrosse League finals.

Oliver Uncorks Sizzling 62 For Open Golf Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver, the good-natured round man from Seattle, Wash., trimmed the Milburn Country Club course in 10 strokes under par, a 62, to take the 36-hole lead in the $15,000 Kansas City Open golf tournament Friday with a total of 134.

Playing near-perfect golf from tee to green on the 6,645-yard par 72 layout, Oliver was out in 30, six strokes under par and came in with a four-under 32.

At that, Oliver was only one stroke ahead of little Jack Burke Jr. of White Plains, N.Y., who had a 69 and a mid-tournament total of 135.

Irish Shoot Works But A's End Jinx

Bremner Starry As Jackets Dampen Shamrock Hopes

By BILL WALKER

The Shamrocks threw a season-long jinx, a four leaf clover specialist and a fan among others who had never beheld an Irish defeat at the New Westminster Adanacs in the fourth game of the Intercity Lacrosse League finals here last night but to no avail. They couldn't overcome a more powerful force.

Athletes are awfully superstitious people. And when referee Sid Greenwood walked onto the Memorial Arena floor before the capacity house the thought that drifted down the Shamrock bench must have been disheartening to say the least. "The Irish hadn't won a game in which Greenwood had officiated this season."

And they still haven't though it was through no design of the little arbiter. Adanacs outplayed, outshot and just about made those reservations for a Mann Cup berth at Toronto next month certain with a well-deserved 8 to 5 triumph.

BREMNER STARS

Actually the final result was closer than the three-goal difference indicated. It was 6 to 5 with four minutes to play but one man—Bobby Bremner, then took charge and personally assured coach Bob Lee of the pleasure of scoring his first victory of the season here.

INDIVIDUAL STAR

It was Bremner, the outstanding star of the game, who relieved the mounting tension in the waning minutes of the contest with the Rocks in the process of staging one of their famous last-ditch stands.

He grabbed a loose ball knocked from the stick of coach Arnold Ferguson of the Rocks, sped down the floor and set up the play for Reo Jerome to score the clinching tally with only 45 seconds left to play. Then just to make it certain, he went through alone 30 seconds later. A thorn in the side of the Rocks defence all evening, Bremner tallied three goals and garnered two assists for the night's top individual performance.

The first half of the game was one of those tight to the vest displays with the Adanacs holding a slight edge and a 3 to 2 lead at the intermission.

RUGGED DEFENCE

The rock-ribbed Adanacs defence was at its best in the third canto as the league champions broke into the clear at 5 to 3, while the Irish managed but three shots on goalie Gordy Pogue's citadel.

Bremner made it 6 to 3 early in the final stanza and that's the way it stayed until Norm Coates took up the offensive burden for the Rocks half way through the frame. The blond defenceman sparked an Irish attack that brought the huge throng to its feet for the first time since the first period when the Rocks led 2 to 1.

He made the play for two

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

One of those professional athletes who has always proven himself a credit to his calling, Eddie Wares will end his short stay with us early next week when he departs for Nelson to take over his new job as sports supervisor for the interior town. Last year's coach of the Cougars has made himself a lot of friends who will bid him success in his latest venture. As a matter of fact I guess it is a mistake to call Wares a pro as his reinstatement to the amateur hockey ranks will come through any day. Holding a three-year contract, Eddie's job at Nelson is a novel one. He will coach the hockey team, an entry in the Western International League along with Kimberley, Trail and Spokane, organize Pro-Ree activities and supervise all amateur sport for the city. "From where I sit now it looks like an awfully sweet proposition," Wares said. At that the former National Hockey League star is reluctant to leave Victoria. "I like it in Victoria and have enjoyed myself during my short stay but the Nelson offer was too good to turn down."

He'll Play For Nelson

Wares disclosed that he has completely recovered from the knee injury that put him on the sidelines for the last two months of the Cougars' schedule. "I have been playing volleyball all summer and the knee hasn't even given me a twinge." He plans on holding down one of the defence positions for Nelson. Eddie knows little about the personnel of the Nelson club except that the team has most of last year's regulars returning. He has already been in contact with the Cleveland club of the American Hockey League regarding player help. One new addition to the club will be Connie McBeth who played a few games for the Cougars early last season and wound up with the Fishermen in the Commercial League.

Ezinicki Played To Orders

Wonder who Connie Smythe figured he was kidding when he came out with the statement that Bill Ezinicki had bodychecked himself "right back to the fifth line." When the fiery little winger stepped out there on the ice and started throwing stiff body checks around he was certainly doing it under orders. He has played that style of hockey ever since he moved into the National Hockey League and up until now it has always fitted right into Smythe's plans.

Smythe is well known for his partiality towards a player willing to get out there and lay it on. Remember how long Red Horner spilled opposing forwards for Toronto? No defencemen ever took any more unnecessary penalties than the big redhead. But he had his orders and played accordingly.

Rolfe Gets The Headlines

Red Rolfe may not win the American League pennant with his amazing Tigers but the popular manager is sure getting a carload of favorable publicity. In recent weeks two well-known weekly magazines have carried feature articles on Rolfe's great ability as a major league pilot. Oddly enough both stories feature the fact that Rolfe keeps a dossier on his Tigers. They also tell about Rolfe's courageous battle with poor health. It appears that the manager has suffered for 10 years with a chronic colitis condition.

No Meat Shortage For These Families

A heavy kill by members of two Victoria families during the first two days of the grouse hunting season in the Roberts Lake area of Sayward. "Having a pretty good grouse year, most everyone getting limits without too much trouble," writes Bill Lewis of the lake resort. In the picture are Mr. and Mrs. Dick Green and Mr. and Mrs. Al Green and family.

Deer Hunters Hit Trails; Blues Plentiful In Up-Island Territory

By ROY THORSEN

Population on the island game trails swelled by hundreds this morning as rifle-toting nimrods seeking first buck deer trophies joined shotgun hunters after blue grouse and bang-tailed pigeons.

Hunters who went into the Campbell River-Sayward country for the opening of the grouse season certainly did well. Game wardens are reported to have checked cars carrying 5,000 birds from that area during the first two days. And you can add a lot more for those hunters who did not get checked.

COHO DERBY

Lee Hallberg, president of the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club, tells us there are still boats and accommodation available at the bay for the two-day $1,000 coho derby on Oct. 7-8.

The coho are already appearing in the bay. Boatmen believe there will be an earlier run this year.

The impressive prize list is going on display in Wilson and Lenfesty's store Monday for a week. Consolation prize includes choice of a $400 fur coat, refrigerator or a television set. There's $100 each day for the derbyist reeling in the biggest salmon. In addition there will be 25 other prizes for each day—certainly the richest derby in Cowichan Bay history.

From Oct. 2 to 7 prizes will be displayed at the Duncan Overwaitea store.

McGEE OPEN NOW

The McGee Swamp area back of Shawnigan Lake is open to hunters for the first time since 1946. It was closed as an experiment advocated by the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association.

Game club is now moving to have the same experiment worked in the logged over country of the Malahat bordered by Shawnigan Lake Cutoff, Island Highway and Millstream.

"Closures are not only good for the area directly involved but spreads game to surrounding country," says Ray Ritchie, club prey.

If the closures are successful toward propagation of wild life, island sportsmen's clubs, thinking of future instead of just today, would like to carry the experiments further.

Game supplies today are far below what they were 15 or 20 years ago. There are a lot more men on the game trails to increase the kill. Add the cougar and wolf toll and it all adds up to a big headache for game department and game club officials to solve.

Hunters are not beefing because they've only got 38 days of deer shooting now compared with two and one-half months a couple of years back. They recognize the need for shorter shooting periods to conserve game.

Gordon's Homer Knocks Detroit Back To Second

New York Yankees once again are a half-game ahead in the American League pennant battle today thanks to an old alumnus, Joe Gordon.

Gordon, in one of the dramatic games of the stretch drive, smashed a home run last night to give Cleveland Indians a 4 to 3 victory over Detroit Tigers. The defeat dumped the Tigers out of a first place tie with the Yanks.

Gordon led off the last of the ninth with his game-winning blow after the Tigers had tied the score at 3 to 3 on a two-out, two-run homer by Don Kolloway in the top of the ninth.

The Yanks and the third-place Boston Red Sox were idle. They open a two-game series in Yankee Stadium today. Boston is two games back of the pace-setters.

Two crack lefthanders, Mel Parnell of the Red Sox and Eddie Lopat of the Yanks, will be the opposing pitchers at the stadium today. They boast identical 17 to 8 records with Parnell riding the crest of a nine-game winning streak.

A Yankee sweep of the two games will virtually knock the Red Sox out of contention as they would then drop four games behind with only eight games to play.

While the Red Sox and Yanks go at each other, the Tigers continue their feud with the Indians with a single game today and another tomorrow.

HOUTTEMAN GOES

Art Houtteman (10-19) has been nominated to pitch today for the Tigers against Cleveland's Mike Garcia (10-10).

The Indians scored all of their runs in last night's thrilling encounter after two outs. Big Luke Easter drove in their first three runs off Hal Newhouse who went the distance for Detroit.

Easter socked his 28th homer after Larry Doby walked with two down in the first inning to give Bob Feller a 2 to 0 working margin.

The Tigers counted an unearned run in the third but Easter stroked a two-out scoring single in the bottom of the third

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Movie Reporter Claims His 'Wild Goose Chase' New Hit

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Having seen movies about agents of the F.B.I., secret service, post office department and public health service, I am preparing a screen play of my own. I am calling it "Wild Goose Chase," a box-office title if I ever heard one. Adhering to the formula for government agent films, I came up with this plot: The camera roams over scenes of public buildings in Washington, D.C., as march music is heard in the background. We come to a view of an impressive edifice and the narrator, who has a voice like Walter Pidgeon's, but isn't, begins talking. "This is the home of the Fish and Wildlife Service," he says. We take an informative tour of the service and end up in the office of the chief. He scowls over a report just off the teletype. "Send for Hudson," he tells an assistant. "He can handle this."

There it is, Hollywood. What am I bid?

PLOT THICKENS Hudson can be James Cagney, Richard Widmark or Dennis O'Keefe, according to the picture's budget. He listens as the chief tells the grim assignment: "Some radioactive geese have been found in Montana; get to the bottom of this."

Hudson puts on his hat (all government agents wear hats) and goes home to pack. His wife, played by Anne Baxter, helps him. As he leaves, she murmurs, "Darling, do be careful." He smiles and waves goodbye.

He steps off an airplane in Montana and goes right to work. He examines the geese. They are an Arctic type, not usually found that far south. Laboratory tests show traces of uranium. Hudson takes specimens of earth from the geese's feet.

Now comes the arduous chore of tracing the earth specimens. Hudson hops into a jeep and bounces all over Montana, examining dirt under a microscope. His wife is distraught over not hearing from him and flies out to join him (I had to get some

BEHIND the MIKE

By F.E.B.

September 23, 1950 (5)—This is our fifth issue of B.T.M., and we're hoping you now look forward to our week-end chat. If you do, we would very much like to hear from you. Include any suggestions or criticisms, for it will be much appreciated. You'll notice we have included the new feature MINUTE BIOGRAPHY. This will keep you up to date of the backgrounds of various CKDA personalities.

READING HABITS

We noticed the other day that CKDA staffers have a varied taste in reading material and thought it worth while to comment. Dorothy Tupper, new addition to the writing staff, is currently reading ACRES AND PAINS by Perelman, while Dave Hill settles down with his lunch and a volume of Encyclopedia Britannica. Terry Garner buries himself in THE NEW YORKER, while Ferdie Bagio enjoys POGO. Bill Stephenson can't get away from it... so he reads faithfully the Sporting News, and Engineer Ray Tate the Green Sheet.

DRAMA BY FRENCH AUTHORS

Two famous French authors will be represented on the FAVORITE STORY and FAMILY THEATRE series this week. On Monday at 8.30, THE CRIME OF SYLVESTRE BONARD by Anatole France will be introduced by Ronald Colman, as RISE STEVENS favorite story. On Friday at 8.30 FAMILY THEATRE will star William Lundigan, Ray Collins and Frank Lovejoy in Victor Hugo's THE BISHOP'S CANDLE STICKS.

527 WINNERS

That's a record for any program... or station for that matter. But CKDA's LUCKY LADY program, made by DAVE HILL, has awarded 527 prizes since its inauguration 8.30 a.m. time last April. In addition, 4 jackpots totaling $2,000 in retail value have been given away!

CHANGE OF TIME

Terry Garner's 55-minute session of the BEST in jazz has been rescheduled to Sunday nights at 11.05. For such top names as George Shearing, Sarah Vaughn and Woody Herman, we suggest you dial 1340 at that time.

TREASURE CHEST

Many of you have possibly noted the addition of this program to the CKDA schedule, but through various reasons have not taken the time to turn on your radio and listen to it. You'll find it one of the finest programs of concert and semi-concert music on the air. Aptly named, the TREASURE CHEST features such famous names as THE BOSTON POPS, KENTUCKY MINSTRELS, JAMES MELTON, RISE STEVENS and composers such as LISZT, FOSTER, BEETHOVEN, CHOPIN and many more. If you are looking for some fine music to accompany your evening at home, be sure to dial 1340 for the TREASURE CHEST, heard nightly at 9.05.

R.C.A. (RESERVE FORCE) BAND

Warrant Officer Charles South will lead his 28-piece Military Band through some favorite band selections, this and each succeeding Sunday afternoon at 3.30. The program originates in the Bay Street Armories and features men of the volunteer force, who do a remarkable job. If you like good band music, we suggest you listen for this new entertaining winter series.

PIANO REQUESTS

Another feature making its debut this Sunday is the program starring Fred Pitt at the piano. Every Sunday morning at 10.05, Fred will be playing your requests, with Bill Stephenson at the mike. Heisterman and Co. present this feature.

FINIS
That's it for this week. We'll have more news and a chuckle or two in next week's column... watch for us.

Crops Crush U.K. Hope For Dollar-Saving

LONDON (CP)—Britain's hope of obtaining substantial dollar savings through a bumper wheat crop has been frustrated by bad weather.

Last month's optimistic forecasts have withered under rain, hail and lightning, agricultural experts now say it will be Britain's worst grain harvest in living memory.

The National Farmers' Union last night described the harvest as "dreary, disappointing and disastrous."

The Farmers' Union said that in Devonshire alone more than £1,500,000 ($4,650,000) has been lost.

Exactly a month ago today, the N.F.U. issued a statement saying that if things turned out as expected, Britain would obtain 375,895 tons more home-grown wheat than last year. It said this would represent a saving equivalent to $25,000,000 in U.S. funds on the basis of the price that would be paid for dollar wheat under the international wheat agreement.

Then the rains came. Within a few days N.F.U.'s latest statement says "reports poured in of laid and twisted crops from 20 counties."

The agricultural correspondent of the News Chronicle said only mechanization of Britain's farming had prevented a disaster that could have unbalanced the national economy for this year.

"Even as it is," the correspondent said, "we shall be poorer by some millions of dollars."

Bar Parking For Army Display

While the Canadian Scottish firepower display is going on between 2 and 4 Sunday afternoon at Horseshoe Bay off the Beacon Hill waterfront, no parking will be allowed on Dallas Road in front of the Lookout or on the Lookout Road, Deputy Chief of Police Harry Mercer reports.

INFORMATION TO BUS PATRONS

Effective with the first trips from the garage Sunday morning, B.C. Electric buses will run on Standard Time. All late Saturday night trips will be completed on Daylight Saving Time.

Why I Believe There Is A God

By FULTON OURSLER

CHAPTER 6

It is the fashion today to blame everything on Communism, but if Stalin died tonight, and all his comrades with him; if the Iron Curtain were lifted at dawn and all the people were free from the purges and slavery and liquidation and the rule of the lie, we would still be faced with the basic, world-wide conflict between good and evil.

And if there were no more Communists working to destroy religion and freedom in the United States, our children would still come back to us with those same denials of what we have taught them.

Nbt Communism, but Godlessness, the dragon mother of Nazism, Fascism and Communism, has brought us to this pass.

In the presence of monstrous disorder on the earth, we must, therefore, have zeal, or else wait without hope for chaos.

Thank God we have before us illustrious examples to promise us again the supernatural assurance that zeal for Christ begets spiritual power and spiritual power begets victory.

Who can doubt that Cardinal Mindszenty's persecution, which has brought him also to servitude, has in its cruel injustice called millions, once indifferent, back to their knees? The unshaken ardor of such men is a tocsin to the sleeping conscience of mankind.

I truly believe that we—all Christians—must imitate, in our own sphere of opportunity, these brave servants of God.

Where, then, shall we begin? Where but in our own lives?

The power of example in one Christian life, however humble and obscure, is beyond all calculation. Here our problems are clear but staggering; we must merely perform the simple duties of a Christian. But when we begin to contemplate those duties, we may well wonder if there is time enough in life to do anything else.

Gilbert Chesterton once said that Christianity has not, as so many suppose, been tried and found a failure. It has been found hard and not tried. To practice Christian doctrine is the challenge of a lifetime.

Who of us can easily obey those Ten Commandments, for 24 hours?

DIVINE HELP

And they are not even a beginning. We can never begin without a knowledge that we shall be divinely helped in our efforts; more than anything else we need a sense of the supernatural. We must realize that we are living in direct contact with universal love and power and truth—and we must conduct ourselves accordingly. That sense of supernatural assistance is the indispensable equipment of the zealous Christian.

To all the earnest, well-intentioned, earth-bound do-gooders of today I say that it is not enough to build the most modern hospitals, necessary as they are. The finest of those hospitals is a failure and a denial of Christ if there is not space within it, and time within it, for healing prayers. Just as surely as Jesus cured paralytics and lepers, so today there is no disease so horrible that it cannot be cured without knife or drug, but by faith in Him alone.

How strange a thing it is to listen to modern jargon about such things. If, on the street, we were to come upon some miserable wretch groveling on the floor, foaming at the mouth, and then follow him to a neurological clinic; if we were to listen to the diagnosis, we would perhaps hear the psychiatrist say: "This man is suffering from ambivalence. He is a schizophrenic." Doctor, what does that mean? "It means the man has two personalities at war within himself." I see, doctor, What did Jesus say?

He said the man had a devil.

TWO DIFFERENCES

What did that mean? It meant that he was possessed. Possessed of what? Possessed, not of schizophrenia, but of a veritable devil. Of two warring personalities. Isn't that right?

But there are two points of difference. Almost never can the psychiatrist cure his schizophrenic, whether it be a mere mental case or a case of possession, disease or demon. But Jesus is able to heal such a man instantly and infallibly, with a power equally available in all ages.

Recently I talked with a famous psychiatrist who confided to me that, while he was an atheist, his best cures of the mentally ill came through religion. He told me the only way he could cure many of his patients was by appealing to their faith in God and insisting on their surrender to God's will. Surrender—not submission, he emphasized. When a man submits to the inevitable, he still has a gleam in his eye and he is saying to himself, "My time will come. I will get even for this." That attitude is a passport to permanent insanity.

A CONSCIENCE

Who of us can examine his conscience today and say: "I have admonished the sinner, instructed the ignorant, counseled the doubtful, comforted the sorrowful; I have borne wrongs patiently, I have forgiven all injuries, I pray for the living and the dead?" Who among us has given not merely contributions to worthy causes but enough of our time to feed the hungry, to give drink to the thirsty, to clothe the naked, visit the sick, and bury the dead?

How many of us have succeeded in cutting pride out of our lives, to replace it with humility; covetousness with liberality, lust with chastity, anger with meekness, envy with brotherly love, gluttony with temperance, and sloth with diligence?

And how many of use have remembered what are the four sins of such infernal wickedness that they cry to Heaven for vengeance? Willful murder? Oh, yes. The sin of Sodom? Yes, we cringe from all profanation. But the other two? Let them stand as the answer to all the revolutionary detractors of the Christian faith. Oppression of the poor is one. Defrauding laborers of their wages is the other.

Communism was seeded by transgressions of those laws. Communism is more than a philosophy which we reject with all our souls. Communism is a criticism. If Christians had had the zeal to live up to the teachings of their faith, such a criticism could never have been made.

NOT ENOUGH

But this program for the individual, strenuous and difficult though it may be, is still not nearly sufficient. The Christian life is partial if it is merely a system of do-good calisthenics. We have our part to play in changing the world. There are things that every one of us can do.

One of them is to keep ourselves informed; to take an interest in what is going on, especially as it affects the moral atmosphere of our country. We can begin at any time to be active citizens of a republic that was founded on a belief in the Father of Light. We can shake off our inertia; we can take the trouble to learn the names of our national and district legislators. When something is wrong, we can write a letter of protest. Let no one tell you such protests go unregarded; they are carefully considered because they represent votes.

The practical opportunities for the zealous Christian are limited only by his own willingness. The practical work of the zealous Christian can perform is limited only by his resourcefulness.

They say that new brooms sweep clean. Let us hope so. If we do not clean up the debris of the world, Satan and his angels will make a clean sweep.

(From the book entitled, "Why I Know There Is A God." Copyright 1950, by Fulton Oursler.) Tomorrow: Fulton Oursler begins the dramatic story of Jackie Robinson and Branch Rickey to illustrate how one man's Christianity actually changed the face of our time. It is the revealing story of what happened when the owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers followed Christ's injunction to "be wise as serpents and harmless as doves."

Many Entries For Photography Salon

Entries from Canada, the United States and Britain will compete at the Salon of Photography to be conducted at the Empress Hotel in November, Irvine Dawson, director, reported at the September general meeting of the Victoria Camera Club.

Harold G. Robinson has been appointed to the board of directors to fill the vacancy left by C. H. Summers who has gone to New Zealand.

In the monthly print competition, first prize was taken by James A. McVie. Other winners were J. F. Dick, C. H. Summers, J. Hawkes and H. G. Robinson.

More Deaths But Mortality Rate In B.C. Unchanged

There was an increase in the number of deaths in B.C. during the first half of the year over the first six months of 1949, but don't worry. The province isn't becoming an unhealthy place in which to live.

Provincial health department reports it's the increase in population which has resulted in the higher mortality figures—from 5,614 last year to 5,796 this year.

The mortality rate has remained unchanged at 10.7 per 1,000 population, officials assured.

Lions Briefed On Community Chest

Members of the Lions Club, whose job it is to canvass the municipality of Esquimalt Oct. 2 for the one-night Community Chest Drive, were brought up to date on facts concerning the chest at their luncheon meeting Friday at the Empress Hotel.

Lions Club officials announced that May Queen Beverly Hearn would take part in a special parade Sept. 30 in connection with the chest drive here.

By ART STOTT

It seems a pity that James Russell Lowell's "The Vision of Sir Launfal" has been dropped from the High School English textbooks. Its content appealed to nearly everyone who wasn't a complete knot-head, and its timing in the early grades was good. The verses set out the true meaning of charity at a time when youngsters were at that Gala-had age—most susceptible to the message they gave.

Maybe boys wouldn't admit the impression the poem made on them. They aren't inclined to admit a taste for "poetry," and they hide sentiment. There's a shyness about them that puts a veneer over such feelings. The feelings are there, though, and they stay on in later life. Before the Community Chest can vassers have finished their jobs a week from Monday night, that will be quietly evident. THAT RESTRAINT is a pretty wholesome attitude. Men don't like to pry into the affairs of people in distress. There's the danger, though, that not knowing the human story of those aided by the Chest agencies, they may make purely impersonal contributions to abstract causes. That isn't the Sir Launfal type of giving.

The human stories make the Community Chest more than an efficient machine for collecting funds. The Chest becomes something of a trust placed in the people of Greater Victoria by children and the afflicted who can't look after themselves.

YOU FEEL AND understand that better if a case worker has taken you to foster homes. You may have met boys whose parents were separated and for whom the natural security of a good home had disappeared in the unsatisfactory tensions of a broken household. In the foster home you see them regaining the sense of security that the affection of guardians can give them, and you're seized with wonder that foster parents, dealing with children who have become problems, could be so understanding and kindly.

You may have been taken to a modest home where a little golden-haired girl of less than two smiled happily. She couldn't know that an incurable brain condition would end her life soon after its beginning. She could only respond to the devotion of a foster mother determined to make her few days sunny.

YOU MAY HAVE spent an evening with a blind teacher of the blind and watched her "seeing" fingers trace out the lettering of the Moon type and braille. You may have learned from her the importance of the simple crafts the sightless can master, and you may have felt something of the need of these people who cannot see to feel that they have a useful place in the world.

You may, under happier conditions, have watched youngsters in games and at camp growing into the kind of youngsters you'd like your own to be, and you may have known that the Community Chest helped in that development.

Probably you've asked why work like this can't be done better and more efficiently by government departments. If you've asked the right people, they may have told you that it's hard for government departments to avoid standardization, that the Community Chest agencies deal with individuals, and that individual needs aren't standardized. For one person, $50 may be a big enough stake to re-establish him. For another, twice or three times that amount might be needed. It's difficult to justify spending government funds that way.

MAYBE YOU'VE asked Chest officials what they say to cynics who feel that cases the agencies handle aren't the cynics' problem. They probably pointed out that those people are the people of our town, our people, and that the town can only be as good as the people in it.

The Community Chest officials haven't all the answers. They don't pretend to be perfect. But what they say seems to make sense. You can try to shy away from the idea that you are your brother's keeper, but in a community, you can't get away from the fact that you and everyone else is a member of that community—neighbors, if you like. If you know what the agencies do for people in your own town, it's up to you to decide what and how much you can do to be a good neighbor.

Man Hangs Self By Necktie In City Jail

A young man from Vancouver and Winnipeg hanged himself by his necktie in the city jail at 2.20 this morning.

An inquest will be held next week in accordance with the law which requires an inquest to be held when a person dies in custody.

Deputy Chief of Police Harry Mercer is withholding the man's identification until next-of-kin have been notified.

Believed to be aged around 30, the man is thought to have a wife in Vancouver and parents in Winnipeg.

According to the deputy chief, he was arrested for being intoxicated in a public place, Fisgard Street, at 12.40.

He was placed in the jail "drunk cell."

At 1.15 the man was ordered by officers to quieten down when he was shouting and disturbing other inmates.

Checked at 2, he appeared to be asleep.

Twenty minutes later, Constable Keith Hollett heard noises in the cell block.

Investigating, he found the man hanging by his neck. He had affixed one end of his tie to the top horizontal bar on the door, tied the other end around his neck and then dropped.

A Victoria Fire Department in-halator crew attended at the request of police. Efforts to revive him failed. Dr. E. L. McNiven pronounced life extinct at 3.

Detectives Louis Callan and Norman Bath was seeking a person the dead man knew in this area to get his wife's and parents' addresses.

Crash Victims Gradually Improving

Six of the seven persons injured in the two-death Sept. 2 head-on car crash at Colwood, are still in Jubilee Hospital.

Fifteen-year-old Dennis Irvine, Chemainus, is improving daily. He was the most seriously injured. His sisters, Donna and Margaret, and brother, David, are in good condition as is Stuart Irvine, their father. Condition of Roy Gallop, who was in the other car in the collision, is also good.

Mrs. M. O. Bowen, 1009 Burdett Avenue, a pedestrian in collision with a car Tuesday night, is reported to be improving gradually at St. Joseph's Hospital. She suffered head injuries.

Pianist Ray Petch Wins Talent Show At Royal Theatre

Bubbling over with high spirits, good-will and pride of accomplishment, Spotlight on Youth, the Davis Motors-CJVI-sponsored talent show, came to a close at the Royal Theatre, Thursday night, with seven finalists in the money and competing eagerly for the high spot.

Ballots were counted on stage and the winner was announced as pianist Ray Petch, who presented his foot-tickling, whistle-worthy rendering of an old favorite, "Whispering."

Presentations were made by Ted Davis with the help of Fred Usher and a good comedy routine by emcee Hugh Curtis, who staggered in with the "swag"—a sack containing 100 silver dollars which were poured into a hubcap and handed to Ray. Over the mike, Ray dedicated the "pieces of silver" to his musical education.

Marilyn Wilson and Marlene Cummins, two little blackface tap-dancers, billed as the "Chat-tanooga's," came second and took the $25 prize. Glen Atkinson won third place and $20 with his singing of the "Serenade" from "The Student Prince."

Runners-up, receiving $10 each, were George Essihos, pianist, playing De Falla's "Ritual Fire Dance"; Tom Shirley of Duncan, who sang "Ave Maria," accompanied by Lawrence Homer of Duncan, and Milton Creasey, pianist, who played the Rachmaninoff "Prelude" in C sharp minor.

Modest 20-Year-Old Girl Winning Fame As Artist

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

We climbed the stairs to the tiny mezzanine gallery above the Marionette Library yesterday and there discovered not only several of Judith Morgan's pictures, but the 20-year-old artist herself paying a flying visit to the exhibit between school and supper.

Judith is a student at Normal School this year and is staying with Mr. and Mrs. George Sinclair, Lee Avenue. But she doesn't know about teaching yet.

"Maybe I'll go on to university first and study art," she says. And with a charming smile she adds: "Maybe I won't get my certificate—it's a long way ahead and there's lots to do."

An attractive girl in her trim beige suit, Judith impressed us with her commonsense idealism, her simplicity and modesty.

"Doesn't it feel pretty wonderful to have achieved a place in the National Gallery?" we asked.

BRIGHT, ALERT

Her answer: "I don't often think about it." But some day Judith would like to go to Ottawa. She loves to travel, she told us. In fact, she has that sort of bright, alert mind that enjoys most forms of constructive activity.

In Alberni High School the few Indian pupils took part in everything going, she commented. Judith, herself, is most proud of her presidency of the H-Y last year.

But her face really lit up when we asked her about music. She doesn't play an instrument but loves to listen and prefers classical music. Concerning her art, she remarked that she had had practically no formal art school training and believes with her teacher, George Sinclair, who has guided her along her own natural bent, that such formal training is likely to curb originality.

There is a warmth and sensibility in Judith Morgan's nature that brings a shine to her eyes when she speaks of certain people and events. There is her sister, Beatrice Dorothy (called "Dolly"), who this year won the same scholarship that first brought Judith's work to the attention of the public. She is five years younger, but tall, mature, and "my best friend in school."

LOVE INDIAN SCHOOL

And there is the residential school for Indian children at Alberni which is doing such wonderful work.

"The children love it now," Judith told us. "After they have been there a little while I don't think any of them would want to go back to the old life. They learn so many things and have all kinds of hobbies and clubs. Every night there is something doing."

She cannot find enough words with which to praise the principal, A. E. Caldwell. Before he came, she says, the children always wanted to leave and in the summer—only a half-dozen or so would stay, but this summer there were 40 at the school.

Asked about the subject matter of future pictures, she was as vague as a true and growing young artist has every right to be. Sometimes she goes out sketching and sometimes an Indian story occurs to her that she feels the urge to express in pastels or tempera, her principal mediums. But as to the direction of her growth—that must wait for the future.

WITH THE FORCES

Scottish To Display Firepower On Sunday

By ROY THORSEN

Citizens who are at Horseshoe Bay on Beacon Hill's foreshore Sunday afternoon to watch the Canadian Scottish Regiment firepower display, are advised to bring along binoculars if they wish to get a closer view of the soldiers' marksmanship.

The two-hour show, starting at 2, will feature three-inch mortar and six-pounder anti-tank gun crews of the Scottish reserve army battalion firing at floating targets well offshore. Accuracy of the Bren gun will be demonstrated through tracer bullets.

The show, first of its kind to be staged here in a long while, is expected to attract thousands of people. It is linked with the Scots' recruiting drive and is the only public feature of the current Army Week program.

VICTORIAN ENLISTS

Another Victorian will soon be going to Okinawa or some other Far East island with the Canadian Army special force to train for combat in Korea or wherever the U.N. decides. He is Lt. Donald Keith Muir, 21, of 483 Superior Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Muir of Rosthern, Saskatchewan.

The young University of Saskatchewan graduate was employed by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service here. He was formerly with the 75th H.A.A. Regt. and is going to the 2nd Field Regt., R.C.A., of the special force.

Army headquarters at Ottawa reports the Korea-bound boys in khaki have a heavy training schedule ahead of them. It's going to be work, work and more work for them—at least 52 hours a week and probably a lot more.

STREAMLINED TRAINING

In a training guide issued to all units, army headquarters has laid down a streamlined program of training. Instructions are "the soldier is to be taught what is required to enable him to do his job—but only what is necessary, not what is desirable."

Aim is to train the force in the shortest time possible. But it must be ensured that each soldier is properly trained and equipped so that he has confidence in himself, his weapons and in those who lead him.

Training schedule includes firing courses and exercises with covering fire which accustom men to noise and confusion of the battlefield. Troops are to be prepared for operations in mountainous wooded terrain and against guerrilla and infiltration tactics.

18TH CENTURY DISCIPLINE

If the modern young soldier has any ideas that army discipline is tough these days, he should glance back a bit into history.

Take the 18th Century, for instance. In 1761 a regimental court martial of the 1st Battalion, Royal American Regiment, held at Fort Pitt, found a soldier guilty of stealing a keg of rum and drinking from it.

His sentence was 500 lashes on the bare back, a 30-shilling stoppage of pay. The man who par-took of the same, knowing it to have been stolen, was found guilty. Court martial recommended mercy. He only got 200 lashes.

They're almost gentle today in comparison.

Arena Patrons' Cars Targets Of Thieves

Lacrosse fans' cars were targets of thieves again in the vicinity of the arena Friday night. From the car owned by J. Woolcock Jr., 580 St. Patrick Street, parked on Jimmie Little's lot, a telescope aerial was stolen. Thieves took the hub caps off a car owned by Frank Webb, 890 Woolaston Street. It was parked in one of the Hudson's Bay lots.

Beer Price Due For Sharp Rise For Brewers

Price of beer in the province is expected to take a sharp increase but not until after rises in the prices of hard liquor have gone into effect to take care of the new defence budget excise tax.

Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy said today he hasn't considered the beer question yet "and I won't until I have the liquor question settled."

That probably will be next week when he hopes to submit a new price list to the provincial cabinet for approval.

"I can't give any indication what the new prices will be because we haven't got them worked out yet," he said.

The commissioner said also reports that liquor price increases will go into effect Oct. 2 had not come from him.

"Someone is surmising that we will try to get the increases through by the end of the month. But I haven't said they will. How can I? It all depends on the cabinet and nothing has gone to the government yet," he said.

Mr. Kennedy said that in addition to the $1 a proof gallon excise tax recently announced there was another eight cents on the dollar from the federal sales tax which had to be considered in working out the new price list.

Also some distillers were increasing the price of their brands of liquor which meant added cost to the consumer.

The three per cent provincial sales tax on top of it all must be remembered as well.

Mr. Kennedy indicated brewers might follow the line of some of the distillers and increase their prices on beer. He said they were paying twice as much now for malt as they paid a few years ago.

"I haven't had any discussions with them yet, though," he said. The beer question was not as urgent as the liquor because of the stocks on hand.

Mr. Kennedy had no idea how the beer question would be handled. He did not know if the 10-cent glass in beer parlors would be smaller.

Boxla Fans Again Plan Mainland Trip

Shamrocks' Sideliners' Club secretary Joe Coleman said today he will be on hand at the C.P.R. wharf Monday afternoon—between noon and 1 to make arrangements with lacrosse fans who want to take the 1.10 boat to Vancouver for the Shamrocks-Adanacs game in New Westminster that night.

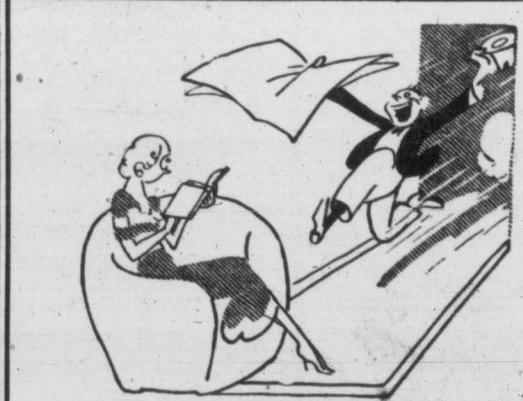

The more persons that make the trip, the cheaper the rate, Mr. Coleman pointed out. He reminded fans that the steamer leaves at 1.10, not 2.10, as has been the case while daylight saving has been in effect.

Y.M.C.A. MUSIC HOUR

A program of well-known local artists will be featured on the Y.M.C.A. Sunday Music Hour starting Sunday evening at 9.

They are Mrs. Iris Paver, contralto; Madame Winnifred Lug-trin-Fahey, soprano; Edward Vird, pianist, and James McGrath, who will read some of Kilgling's works.

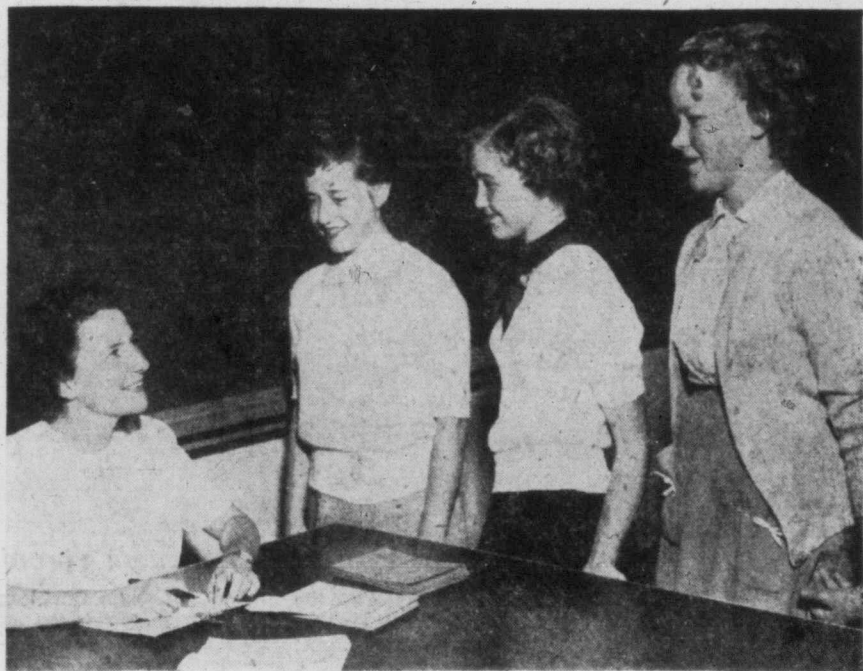

Concluding the program will be two color films, "Speckled Trout Across Canada" and "Picturesque Poland."

School Opening Set After Month's Delay

Friday was registration day for new students going to S. J. Willis Junior High School, Topaz Heights, School, which was not ready in time for regular opening Sept. 5, will begin classes Oct. 4. Students in meantime have had extra month's holiday. Teacher Irene Brown, seated, is shown registering, left to right, Helen McIver, Pat Sparks and Joyce Oke, who are to enter grade 9.

SCHOOL HAS EIGHT-TON DOOR

Massive Structure At Topaz Divides Gyms

The biggest, heaviest and most expensive door on Vancouver Island has just been installed in the gymnasium of the S. J. Willis Junior High School on Topaz Avenue.

The door actually serves as a wall. It divides the gym, 90 by 120 feet, into two gyms, 90 by 60. The idea is that when the door is closed PT classes can be held for boys on one side and for girls on the other.

The ponderous portal is three inches thick and gets this—20 feet high and 90 feet across.

It is built in 27 sections so that when it is not needed it can fold back into eight feet of space in a wall closet.

Built of plywood and covered with canvas for the sake of appearance, each section weighs close to 500 pounds. That makes the weight of the whole door just short of eight tons.

COST $8,000

It cost in the neighborhood of $8,000.

Despite the size and weight, the door is simple to operate. Electricity does the work. All the operator has to do is turn a key.

The key looks just like an ordinary front-door latch key.

The door is hung from a track which runs along the ceiling. There is nothing in the floor to hold it but a layer of sponge rubber on the bottom of each panel is forced down when the door is properly shut. This rubber under pressure grips the floor to hold the door as firm at the bottom as the track does at the top.

The door is a patent of Horn Brothers' Company, Davenport, Iowa, sons of the cabinet maker who invented it in 1909.

Fishpole Thief Discards Purse

Discarded loot from one of the robberies of the "fishing pole" thief was recovered Friday evening.

It was a purse owned by Mrs. S. Cooper, 152 Wellington Avenue, stolen from the home of Mrs. Bernice Nicholls, 1186 View Street, on the night of Sept. 9.

In the purse was a wallet owned by Mrs. H. A. Kepner, 2532 Belmont Avenue, whose purse containing this was taken at the same time.

All personal effects were still intact but money—about $54—was missing.

Purse was found by the son of Mrs. G. F. Fatt, 1749 Rockland Avenue, in a vacant lot at Linden and Rockland.

Well known in Toronto military and social circles are the visitors pictured above; second from left to right, Mrs. John Hoyle, her husband, Maj. Hoyle, B. Paed, M.A.; Mrs. Geary and her husband, Maj. Handley Geary, V.C. They arrived last week by motor to spend three weeks in the city with Maj. Hoyle's brother, Richard, left, and Mrs. Hoyle, at their Wilshire Apartment home. This is the first trip to Victoria for Mrs. Hoyle, although her husband is well known here. Maj. Hoyle, nationally known as president and director of Camp Gay Venture Ltd., in Lochlin, Ont., lectures for Ontario Department of Education. He is the author of "Towards the Understanding of Youth," which has sold more than 10,000 copies. During the First War he was with the armored cars, Canadian Machine Gun Corps, and left Victoria with the reserve for 88th Victoria Fusiliers. He organized the Civil Service Credit Club in Victoria. Mrs. Geary, born in Saskatchewan, spent her childhood in Victoria. The party plans to motor up-island to Campbell River and Forbes Landing before their return.

Enter University Of Washington

Popular members of the city's young set, Miss Marion Dods, left, and Miss Isobel Henley, leave Sunday for Seattle, where they will begin their freshman year at University of Washington. Miss Dods is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dods, 3096 Cadboro Bay Road, and Miss Henley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Henley, 1307 Rockland Avenue.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Barbara Mae Lipsey Feted

Mrs. Arthur B. Elworthy entertained at a shower tea last Saturday in the Palm Room, Empress Hotel, in honor of Miss Barbara Mae Lipsey, whose engagement to Mr. Stanley Murphy is announced today.

The bride-elect received a corsage bouquet of white gladioli. Her mother, Mrs. Richard A. Lipsey and Mrs. J. Burns presided at the silver urns. Tall green candles in silver candleabra, and mauve and pink asters in a silver compote centred the tea table.

Guests included Mesdames M. Jackson, T. James, C. Jameson, C. Johns, M. Kersey, V. King, G. Ledingham, D. Legget, D. Myles, L. McLaughlin, S. Moore, R. McCaw, K. McCarter, F. Norton, D. Oliver, W. Skillings, F. Spencer, A. Willis, E. Wilson, A. Elworthy, G. Elworthy, A. Helmecken, J. Arnot, E. Burton, G. Millard, J. Burridge, T. Bowden, J. Bowden, J. Cottrell, A. Challoner, B. Davies, K. Davis, J. Davidson and Misses G. Ledingham, D. Arnot, P. Butcher, P. Clarke, B. Rodell, M. Sager, M. Shephard, D. Willis, K. Bert-Smith, M. Helmecken, G. Kendall and D. Laidler.

In Victoria to spend the winter after ranching at Heffley Creek, B.C., are Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hett, and their son, Ross Jr., who will attend Brentwood Boys' School.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ashe, Gordon Head, were Mr. and Mrs. William Ashe, Drexel Hill, near Philadelphia. On their return trip they plan to visit Seattle and Chicago.

Miss Shirley Wray Campbell, who will wed Mr. Alexander Murray Davidson this evening, entertained for her bride attendants, yesterday at luncheon in Empress Hotel. Guests were Mrs. G. Hall, sister of the groom, from Vancouver, and Misses June Rawlinson and Gloria Davies.

Miss Shirley Brown, whose marriage to Mr. Lloyd Glassford takes place tonight, was honored on Monday evening by her friends and fellow workers from the Naval Communication Centre, H.M.C. Dockyard, at a shower given by Miss Marian Jackson and Miss Nancy Chung at the home of the former. The gifts were hidden in a gaily decorated umbrella, and included a voile apron embroidered with the names of the guests. Corsage bouquets of rosebuds and carnations were presented to Miss Brown and her mother, Mrs. Herbert Brown. The refreshment table, centred with mauve asters was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Jackson and Mrs. K. MacLean. Among those present were Mesdames E. Wilkinson, F. Barron, and the Misses Betty Jolleys, F. Walden, L. South, A. Hales, Edith Gamey, Jean Webb, Marian Rousay, Pat MacLean, Mary Jackson, Hazel Wilson, Edith Franzen, Molly Kempster, Joyce Hensley, Peggy Lowe, Marion Wilson and Lili Wilson.

Mrs. N. McDermid, of Baddeck, Cap. Breton Island and Mrs. V. L. Saunders, Bridgewater, N.S., have been visitors in Victoria the past few days, guests of Mrs. C. M. Warner, George Road. The visitors, who flew from Moncton, N.B., to the Pacific Coast, will return by train to Calgary, fly to Edmonton to spend a week and then east to Nova Scotia.

Vancouver guests at the marriage this morning of Miss Dorothy Hardlag and Mr. Maurice Arnel Jorre de St. Jorre, were Mrs. L. Delasalle, Mrs. Law Henricksen, and Messrs. P. Delasalle, B. de la Girodard, R. Sinclair, L. Norman and J. deCannonville. Mr. C. S. Dobson, Alameda, Calif., Mr. Leonard Klein, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Murray Renolds, Nanaimo, were also among guests.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Mrs. Meyer Knows Pacific Never Crossed Atlantic

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Harriet Meyer, wife of Paul W. Meyer, United States consul at Victoria for the past two years and now named to the same post in Dublin, Eire, tells us quite candidly that neither she nor her husband have ever crossed the Atlantic Ocean before.

"We've crossed the Pacific many times, by boat and plane," she says, "for our interests and our work have always been in China. Now we are to see the other side of the world."

Her bright blue eyes widened and her clear voice softened a little as she added diffidently, "I hope they will like us over there. We'll like being there, I know," she continued, "for in every new country there is so much to see and to learn."

That sentence describes Harriet Meyer perfectly.

For in her wide-open eyes and her expressive face one sees the inquiring mind that must delve into backgrounds and know something of origins.

In the two years she has been in Victoria, both she and Mr. Meyer have acquired a knowledge of the city and of the province that is astonishing. They have attended lectures and night school classes that featured the province's history; they have delved in bookstores for early writings and they have made friends with many older citizens and listened to their interesting reminiscences.

When they leave for the new appointment at the end of the month Victoria will lose two good friends.

For as Harriet Meyer puts it: "We love your city and we hope someday to come back for a longer stay."

Eyes Turn Toward China

Victoria, however, will never be the Meyer's first love.

That was given to China many years ago where Harriet Meyer spent 20 years of her life and where Mr. Meyer started his diplomatic career.

Harriet Meyer graduated from Holyoak College in Maryland, and went out to China in 1926 as a teacher of English in Ginling College for girls at Nanking.

"Those were pioneer days," she recalls, "for it still was considered almost unheard of for a Chinese girl to prefer an education to marriage."

In 1927 the Communists entered Nanking and staff and pupils fled the college. Mrs. Meyer returned to the United States to the staff of the Y.W.C.A. at Stanford College. In her second year there Dr. Wu, principal of Ginling College, found her and persuaded her to return to Nanking for Chiang Kai-shek had by then driven the Communists out.

"So I saw three different Nankings," she reminisces, "the medieval city, the city of the Communists and the city of the National government."

Mr. Meyer was attached to the consulate at Nanking. They were married in Shanghai and later went to Peking to live.

They have one son, John, who will complete his school year in New York and then go to Dublin to join his parents.

"Paul was in charge of a language group at the Peking Consulate," Mrs. Meyer recalls, "the Chinese staff learning English and the English speaking group learning Chinese."

"It brought us so much closer together and we gained so much knowledge."

"We have many friends in China," she said quietly.

Interests Many, Varied

During her stay in the city Mrs. Meyer has continued her interest in schools and mission work in the Christian church.

"Perhaps that seems a bit old fashioned," she says with a smile, "but I shall always be interested in such work."

She is a member of the board of directors at the local Y.W.C.A. and is on the public relations committee there. One other interest she described as "collecting rejection slips."

But it is not all rejection slips for Harriet Meyer has already had some of her poetry printed in the Canadian Poetry Magazine and the Christmas edition will contain another of her poems. "I know poetry is not popular," she says, "but I enjoy writing it."

The rejection slips don't bother me at all.

Wherever she goes this happy knack of enjoyment will give Harriet Meyer much pleasure and gain for her many friends.

Miss Harding In All-White Creation For Cathedral Wedding This Morning

St. Andrew's Cathedral decorated with profusion of white chrysanthemums at the altar, and brilliant fall flowers, was the scene of a wedding service marked with traditional charm and beauty this morning at 10.

The bride was attractive, dark-haired Dorothy Ida Harding, daughter of Mrs. Christy Harding, 1031 Craigdarroch Road, and the late C. Harding, who chose a beautiful all-white ensemble for her marriage to Maurice Arnel Jorre de St. Jorre.

A graduate of University of Alberta, with a B.A., LL.B., the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, 1630 Pinewood Avenue.

Charles S. Dobson, Alameda, Calif., gave the bride in marriage.

A diamond and sapphire bracelet, belonging to her mother, was her only jewelry. Her gown was an exquisite creation of figured satin, and of nylon over taffeta, the former fashioning the slender bodice finished with cap sleeves and Mandarin neckline, and the latter the bouffant skirt. Lace mitts extended to the fore-arm. Her brief veil was gathered with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of September white chrysanthemums and a white prayer book.

Fall's first delicate tones were seen in the net and taffeta formal gowns worn by attendants, sisters of the bride and groom. Long mitts and dainty taffeta dresses echoed the muted colorings.

Maid of honor, Miss Ariel-Marie Jorre de St. Jorre, wore deep turquoise and carried many-shaded chrysanthemums. Bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Harding and Miss Jacqueline Jorre de St. Jorre were in rich lilac and primrose, and carried bouquets of ruby and of bronze chrysanthemums.

Gerald Sullivan was best man, and Ross Sinclair and Philip Delesalle, both of Vancouver, ushers.

Father Daniel Johnston officiated, and Miss Madelyn Colitis, A.R.C.T., sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." Miss Marguerite McKay was organist.

Autumn flowers banked the fireplace in the reception room of Windermere Hotel where guests were received. J. Slade Stevens, gave the bride's toast. Rosebuds decorated the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Jorre de St. Jorre are traveling to Seattle and Vancouver on honeymoon, returning to Nanaimo to make their home.

The bride has chosen a honey-toned knitted suit, wine suede shoes and bag, and honey-toned feather hat for traveling. A mink shortee coat, and gardenias en corsage will complete her ensemble.

University Graduates To Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Lipsey, 2809 Burdick Avenue, wish to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Barbara Mae, to Stanley Albert Murphy, Victoria. Both are graduates of University of British Columbia, the bride-elect having affiliations with Kappa Alpha Theta. October 21 has been named as the wedding day and the ceremony will take place in St. John's Church at 9 in the evening. Miss Lipsey has chosen as matron of honor Mrs. David Myles, and as bridesmaids, her sister, Miss Thirell Lipsey, and Miss Pamela Butcher of Victoria, Miss Virginia Lipsey, Seattle, and Miss Gloria Millard, Vancouver.

Symphony Week

Next week may be just like any other week to you . . . but not to the Women's Committee of Victoria Symphony Society . . . For next week is Symphony Week . . . sponsored by the committee and planned to direct attention to the 10th anniversary season of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and the sale of season's tickets at the box office.

Special events on the calendar for Symphony Week include opening feature Monday evening, a city-wide telephone bridge with members of the symphony committee and a host of friends of the symphony orchestra holding bridge or canasta parties in their own homes. This event will be open to anyone who wishes to participate. . . . Closing feature will be a large tea, again open to the public, at "Riffington," attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wallace, 3175 Beach Drive, on Saturday from 3 until 6.

Arranged by Elizabeth Forbes, Women's Editor

"Riffington," Beach Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wallace, with its graceful stone arches and beautiful gardens, will be setting for the Sept. 30 tea to be given by members of the Women's Committee as a climax to Symphony Week. Left to right, on the wide entrance steps, are Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh, committee president; Mrs. S. D. Markham, director of the symphony society board, and Miss Jo Brown, general convener of Symphony Week.

Right, Mrs. C. LeFevre, convener of the telephone bridge and canasta event on Monday evening.

Below—Among members of the Women's Committee who will be hostesses in their homes Monday evening for the city-wide telephone bridge and canasta are, left to right, Mrs. James Munro, Mrs. Boyce Gaddes, Mrs. A. McGillivray and Mrs. Arch L. Pidgeon. Those participating in this event may leave their names at Fletcher's symphony box office and be eligible for the many prizes to be drawn over a local radio station, that same day, in a special program.

Mrs. Frances Mara, right, convener of the Saturday tea, with members of her committee. Mrs. W. Laundy, Mrs. W. Stenner and Mrs. Arthur Baker, left to right, sample different sandwich fillings that will be used in delicious refreshments planned for the event.

"Anyone seen my hairbrush? Where's that fistful of bobbie pins I left on the dressing table last night? Who's made off with my powder puff?" Any of the foregoing sound a familiar note with you? Likewise, I'm sure! It's this sort of routine, in the early morning rush, that sets my family off to a wild start.

"Why," spouts my good mother, "don't you get a system, and a utility tray to keep your cosmetics and knick-knacks in one place?" (If this is beginning to sound like a commercial, you could be right.)

Anyhow, it's a utility tray I'll be getting; or, be getting out of the busiest room in the house within the 2½-minute period set for the morning cat lick, cosmetics or no cosmetics!

There are liquids to remove spots (any dog, who reads this column and answers to the name of Spot, please ignore that statement), liquids to encourage growth on shiny-topped domes, and now a super, whooper liquid, that will remove static electricity from plastic or vinylite records! "How's that, again, you ask? Well, seems that brothers plastic and vinylite, have a natural talent for pulling dust particles out the air the way a magician pulls rabbits out of a hat. The result of this dust collection, on your record collection, is not the best. Wear and tear is greater on discs, causing, in due time, a nasty racket on your favorite recordings.

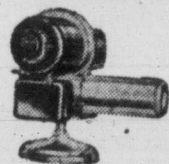

Now that I've planted the seed of panic, let's eliminate it with a bottle of this wonder stuff. It's $1.25 a bottle and will clean 200 records. To use it, merely apply a few drops of the liquid on a clean cloth, then wipe it off—the record. As a protection for your next album of records, apply the liquid before their first playing.

By the by, the above is inflammable, so don't haul your discs close to the fireplace... cozy like... to clean them or you might find yourself singing three choruses of "I don't want to set the world on fire!"

Flivver Survives Alaska Highway

Bound for Los Angeles from Fairbanks, Alaska, in this 1913 Model "T," Lawrence H. Peterson has reached Edmonton after a trip down the Alaska Highway. It took him 26 days for the 2,000-mile leg and he still has 2,500 miles to go. Outdated tires are his main problem. They're hard to get and besides that, he had eight flats and nine blowouts. Otherwise, the flivver ran fine.

$4,700,000,000 Tax Bill Voted By U.S. Houses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate and House of Representatives Friday approved the $4,700,000,000 emergency war tax bill by overwhelming margins. The bill, which now goes to President Truman for certain approval, calls on millions of Americans to make financial sacrifices to combat Communist aggression.

The Senate approved the compromise bill by a voice vote. Not one dissenting vote was audible in the Senate. A few hours earlier the House had passed it by a vote of 328 to 7.

The first impact of the measure will be felt by the U.S. public Oct. 1, when the government starts taking one-fifth more taxes, after personal exemptions, out of every wage or salary. Increases for taxpayers will range from 12 to 20 per cent.

That bill is to be acted upon when Congress returns after the November elections. The excess profits tax would be retroactive to Oct. 1 or July 1, 1950.

The two measures together may boost taxes by $12,000,000,000, to almost $50,000,000,000 a year—higher than any collections during the Second World War.

COVERS $6,000,000
The "first installment" bill raises by almost $3,000,000,000 the income taxes of more than 50,000,000 individuals, picks up $1,500,000,000 additional a year by increasing normal corporation tax rates, and gets other millions by plugging loopholes and making other tax law changes.

Among the so-called loopholes the bill would close is one relating to educational and charitable institutions. These institutions henceforth would be required to pay regular corporation tax rates on their unrelated business activities, such as a spark plug factory operated by a university.

The bill prevents evasion of taxes by so-called "collapsible corporations" where some movie producers have been able to pay capital gains taxes instead of the higher personal income levies.

Agency, Top Producer For Sun Life Assurance

The Sun Life Assurance Company now has $143,000,000 of insurance in force in British Columbia, president George W. Bourke of Montreal said in an interview with the Victoria Daily Times in Vancouver yesterday.

This makes the B.C. agency, under well-known manager A. L. ("Sandy") Wright, the top producer in the world's largest international life insurance company, which has a total of $4.3 billions in force and assets of $1.5 billions.

Sun Life investments in British Columbia are approximately $50,000,000, Mr. Bourke said.

BUSINESS INCREASES
"New business is currently 20 per cent higher than last year," the president reported. At the same time, the company pays out almost $500,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries each working day of the year.

Mr. Bourke sees life insurance as a practical, working rebuttal to communism, since it is based on free enterprise, is competitive and recognizes the right of the individual to strive and plan according to his needs and resources.

"Korea has revealed that we must fight unceasingly if we are to survive," Mr. Bourke said. "Communism is a disease which, if allowed to spread to this continent, will frustrate endeavor, sap initiative and undermine faith. It is a deadly challenge to our cherished ideals."

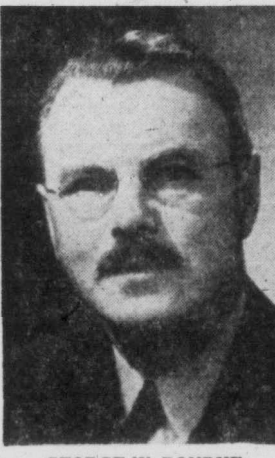

Mr. Bourke is widely known throughout the insurance world as "the man who rose to president without ever selling an insurance policy."

During World War I Mr. Bourke served overseas with the artillery. He won the Military Medal in France after suffering arm injuries which, though still bothersome, do not stop him from pursuing his hobby of golf.

Mr. Bourke is a director of the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Trust Company.

On his current visit to British Columbia Mr. Bourke is accompanied by Alistair M. Campbell, vice-president; Joseph E. Chandler, special assistant and vice-president; Walter Attridge, superintendent of agencies for Canada; and E. P. Higgins, superintendent of sales promotion.

Mr. Bourke returns to Eastern Canada today.

Forest License Sought By MacMillan Co.

H. R. MacMillan Export Co. wants 200,000 acres of timber land in the Port Alberni and Clayoquot Sound area reserved for its subsidiary, Alberni Pacific Lumber Mills, which operates a big mill at Port Alberni.

Forest management licenses assure selective logging on a sustained yield basis.

Only two days ago the Victoria lumber firm of Crowe, Gonason Co. Ltd. revealed it had applied for a license covering 30,000 acres in the Nootka Sound area.

The area desired by the MacMillan interests is adjacent to 80,000 acres owned by the company.

CAPT. R. W. McMURRAY, managing director of Canadian Pacific Steamships, Montreal, arrived in Victoria this morning for a one-day visit with company representatives here. Until 1945, when he took his present position, he was manager of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service with headquarters in Victoria. A daughter, Mrs. V. G. Pinhorn, lives at 788 Transit Road.

Students At Normal School Name Leaders

The 240 students of Victoria Normal School held their election for major student offices on Friday afternoon.

Murray F. Mackintosh, B.A., was elected president of students' council. From Calgary, formerly of Fleet Air Arm of the Royal Navy, Murray is 1948 graduate of University of British Columbia.

Garth Godwin was elected president of the Literary Society. He is graduate of Tsouli High School (Comox district) where he won the Rotary oratorical contest for Vancouver Island.

"Buzz" Nutini, Trail, was elected president of the Athletic Society. He played intermediate basketball at U.B.C., senior B baseball at Trail and won a table tennis championship in the East Kootenays.

Miss Nancy Holman was elected president of Drama and Debating Society. She has completed three years at the University of British Columbia, working in English and history.

A tie vote necessitated co-conveners for social activities, namely Miss Kathy Evans and Hugh Harvey.

Miss Kathy Evans, A.R.T.C., of Victoria, has completed her second year in music at the University of Washington.

Miss Selma Frew, Cumberland, secretary of Literary Society.

Miss Catherine Kennedy, Victoria, vice-president of Athletic Society.

Miss Olive Mason, Summerland, secretary of Athletic Society.

Stan Mozol, Victoria, vice-president of Drama and Debating Society.

Miss Ruby Brunski, Kelowna, secretary of Drama and Debating Society.

Press representative, Fred Francis, B.A., Victoria.

Sweet Old Lady Had Bad Record

DETROIT (AP)—Police were sympathetic with 82-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton after tracing some lottery tickets to her.

They figured she was just a bewildered old lady caught up on the gambling fringe. Then they took her fingerprints.

Police said it turned out that the woman in the old-fashioned clothes had an international police record. Records showed she had been jailed in Britain in 1927 for obtaining money under false pretences.

So police marked her down as the mastermind of a lottery proposed to raise $75,000 for two non-existent orphan homes.

Mrs. Hamilton was charged with operating a lottery.

ALBERTA OIL REPORT British-Dominion Stakes Well Near Edmonton

By C. V. MYERS
CALGARY—The search for new coral reefs continues in the Edmonton area. New British Dominion has staked site for a Devonian wildcat 17 miles due west of Acheson and about 25 miles due west of Edmonton city. The new well is six miles west of the nearest dry hole, Midland Texaco No. 1.

The wildcat is located on a 3,840-acre farm from Texaco.

IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAMS—In loving memory of Major H. Williams, late of the South Saskatchewan Regiment, killed in action at Lochnagar, Turnout Canal, Belgium, on September 24th, 1914.

Deep in the heart I have a picture of a loved one laid to rest. In memories that will keep it true. Because he was one of the best. Ever remembered by his loving brother, Wally.

RADLER—In loving memory of a very dear friend, William Radler, who passed away September 22, 1950.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance. Just a memory and a true. Just a love of sweet devotion. Of one who thinks of you. Ever remembered by Doreen and Walter.

To assist our readers in preparing "In Memoriam" notices, the Times has compiled a group of appropriate wordings and suitable verses. Telephone BRACON 5181, or call in at the Times office for understanding assistance.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
TENDER NO. G3-39-781
SEALED TENDERS enclosed in envelopes marked according to the above Tender No. and addressed to the Secretary, Canadian Commercial Corporation, 700 Lyon Street, Ottawa, Ontario, will be received until 4:00 P.M. (E.S.T.) on the 4th day of October, 1950, for Resurfacing Road, Mary Hill Port, Victoria, B.C.

Tender forms will be supplied by the Canadian Commercial Corporation upon request. No tenders will be considered unless made on such forms, and all tenders shall be subject to the terms set forth or referred to in such forms.

The Plans and Specifications are on exhibition at the Office of the Canadian Commercial Corporation, Room 1209, No. 7 Temporary Building, 700 Lyon Street, Ottawa, Ontario, at which offices copies may be obtained upon deposit of $25.00 in the form of a certified cheque made payable to the Receiver General of Canada. This deposit will be refunded when such copies are returned in good condition. Plans and specifications are also on display at the Victoria Builders Industries Exchange, P.O. Box 608, 816 Wharf St., Victoria, B.C.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada payable to the Receiver General of Canada, or by bearer bonds, as specified in the form of tender for ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the tender.

All deposits made will be returned unless in the case of the successful tenderer, he should decline to enter into a contract for the work when requested to do so or should fail after having entered into the contract to complete the same satisfactorily.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

City Kennel Club Holds Point Shows

Victoria City Kennel Club will stage championship shows at the Crystal Garden, Oct. 6 and 7. Entries for both events will close at midnight on Sept. 27. First entries received were from the Von Hangaard Kennels of North Hollywood and consist of a standard poodle—Von Mar Baron Rogue and a miniature doberman pinscher—King Allah V Siegenberg. Both these dogs are American champions and should make interesting competition in their respective breeds.

ADDED FEATURE
Obedience trials will be staged at both shows by the Greater Victoria Obedience Training Club, under Canadian Kennel Club rules. The judges of the trials will be Wally Bowden and George Donaldson, both of Victoria. William Squelch of Tulameen, B.C., and Pat Brennan of Vancouver, will judge all entries in the main events.

Entry forms may be obtained from the secretary, E 2536, Petland at 822 Fort Street, Clark and Cordick at 2503 Douglas Street, and at the Pet Shop at 1412 Douglas Street.

CONTINUE CURFEW
The Local Council of Women has written City Council stating its members approve of the 9.30 curfew and are anxious to have it continued and enforced. The letter was signed by Mrs. Alice Harper, council secretary.

Alberni Tories Support Anscomb

Alberni District Progressive Conservative Association is endeavouring to "catch up" with reports circulated a short time ago that it had requested the resignation of Hon. Herbert Anscomb as provincial leader of the Conservative party.

The association charges the resignation request report was spread by Les Bewley, president of the Young Progressive Conservatives and that it is "an absolute falsehood."

"This association has, and has had absolute confidence in Mr. Anscomb's leadership and has passed a vote of confidence in him without one dissenting vote," states the president, J. F. Glenn, and the secretary, H. William Helen, in a letter received here.

No Panic Action On British Reds

GLOUCESTERSHIRE, Eng. (Reuter)—Sir Hartley Shawcross, Attorney-General, said Friday there would be no "panic legislation" to deal with Communists in Britain.

He said in a speech the possibility of further legislation could not be excluded, "but we must keep our heads... there is no need for panic."

Most of the men who took part in Communist-led strikes were loyal to Britain but failed to realize the Communists were using them for "their own disruptive ends."

Flynn Weds Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Movie
actress Patrice Wymore flew off for Paris Friday to become the bride of actor Errol Flynn. She said the marriage would take place "just as soon as we get some papers cleared up."

'NICE LITTLE COMMUNITY'

Health Conditions At Tye Improved

Health conditions at Tye Camp, welfare centre for otherwise homeless families, are rapidly improving, Dr. J. L.
Gayton, medical health officer, informed the Union Board of Health at its meeting Friday.

The board comprises representatives from the city and Esquimalt, whose health services are interlocked.

At Mrs. Margaret Christie, chairman of the city's health and welfare committees, was particularly pleased with the report.

"We intend to make Tye Camp a nice little community," she said. "This report is very promising."

Earlier in the month there was some criticism about camp conditions leveled by residents in the nearby vicinity.

A suggestion that the telephone company revert to its former method of putting out one telephone book for the whole island instead of four is now being

FILLING THE TANK
Volunteer fire department members were testing its pumps and emergency water supply tanks. Three pipes were led into the tank. The first pipe alone could fill the tank in 18 hours. The second in 24 hours. The third pipe could empty it in 12 hours. If the tank were empty and all three pipes were working together, how many hours would it take to fill the tank?

Counterfeit

A DEALER bought gasoline for 18 cents a gallon and sold it for 20 cents a gallon. One day a motorist drove in, bought 10 gallons and handed the attendant a $20 bill. The attendant, being short of change, got the bill changed at the nearby store and gave the motorist a change due him. Soon the drugist returned with the $20 bill declaring it was counterfeit. The gas attendant thereupon refunded the money to the drugist. What was the dealer's actual loss?

The "Ol' Vic," like a lady, could talk about her operation. After the arrival of the Kathleen and Marguerite, she had her beam increased so she could stow more motor cars and became a valuable asset on the Nanaimo-Vancouver run during the tourist season.

Anyone should be pardoned for shedding a tear when the "Op Vic" passes from the C.P.R. into other hands. She has been the greatest individual factor in the development of the tourist trade in these parts.

Too bad Capt. Troup, probably Victoria's most practiced dreamer, couldn't be here today to see what "Troup's Folly" had really done for the Capital City of British Columbia.

The meter will at least give a precise registration of the pain felt by the patient and his eligibility for a "merciful death."

WON HIM RESPECT

Since then, his Oxford accents around the oval concert table and in the rambling halls of the U.N.'s temporary headquarters have inspired respect, the world's most astute and polished phrase-maker.

The phrases, however, have not spoiled Russia's talk, whom Sir Gladwyn has succeeded, eventually, with the same persistence, besting the "back in the English country."

transports and the Princess Kathleen, which did such a great job in the last war, would undoubtedly be wanted again. Then the new steamer Princess of Nanaimo which was launched last week in the United Kingdom for service between Nanaimo and Vancouver might be taken over for war duty. Under such circumstances the Princess Victoria would have to be retained for service.

Skirt Lengths Vary But Paris Says Slim Waists, Bulky Coats

By ROSETTA HARGROVE

THE BASIC daytime silhouette for winter, as revealed by the 1950-51 fashion collections here, will stress sloping, rounded shoulders.

The waistline will remain small and the hips natural, but the stomach will be flattened and well under control. Skirt lengths vary with the individual and may be from 12 to 15 inches from the ground.

The sheath theme predominates throughout daytime collections. Treatment varies in often the suggestion of drapery through the bodice.

Alwyn favors a fan-pleated side panel, while Balmain likes dresses at the back of the knees. Dresses feature single, double, and triple tunic effects and, and Jacques shows the knee-length hobble skirt which can be released a few inches at the hem by a row of buttons.

Coats are bulky in the extreme. The feeling of width is developed through use of thick-plaid "teddy bear" and "poodle" fabrics. Schiaparelli, Molyneux and Lanvin place width at the side of their coats, leaving front and back flat. Balenciaga sets in enormous sleeves in addition.

The fur-lined coat is back in favor. The lining may be bright green, red or blue lamb, or it may be mink, broadtail, squirrel, ermine or fox. The fur depends upon the degree of formality achieved by the coat.

Suits have perfectly plain or slim wrap-around skirts with a fitted jacket. Basques vary in length and are flared or fitted. Dior suits are them to stand away from the figure.

Emphasis is placed on pockets: kangaroo, papoose, patch or flap. Schiaparelli puts pockets under the arm, on coats as well as jackets. Fur is used to trim collars, cuffs, and to edge the basques, particularly on the new "street velvet" models.

LUXURIOUS GOWNS

Lame is the news for dinner and theatre wear, in designs of outstanding simplicity. The outside muff in luxury pelts is worn with these suits and seen for daytime fur or velvet, alternate with these ruffs.

Evening gowns are luxurious and designed with skirts blowing or pencil-slim. The shorter ballet skirt is a favorite, too. Often take their inspiration from Persian and Chinese motifs.

Remember Husband's Virtues, Too

By RUTH MILLETT

JUDGING from the letters I receive the modern wife makes one serious mistake in marriage. She dwells too much on her husband's faults. Instead of accepting him "as is" and being thankful that his virtues outweigh his short-comings.

Mrs. C. wishes her husband would take more interest in the children—the way Mrs. B's husband does. But Mrs. C. doesn't stop to think that Mr. B is lacking in several ways in which her own husband rates high.

Mrs. A. complains because her husband's job takes him away from home so much. She doesn't stop to think that the fact that when he is home he is a pleasant companion and easy to get along with and obviously happy to be with his family outweighs the fact that his job doesn't allow him to be at home as much as she'd like.

WIVES WANT PERFECTION

And so it goes. Each wife wants perfection in her husband. She wishes he had all the best qualities in all the husbands she knows.

That is a particularly harmful kind of wishful thinking for it makes a wife more concerned with her husband's faults than with his good qualities.

It gives her the idea that she is being cheated in one way or another when she should be feeling lucky for having as good a husband as she has.

Next time you're tempted to start comparing your husband unfavorably with some other husband you know, do a right-about-face and start counting up all his good points. If they outweigh his faults, you haven't any right to feel cheated.

Tips On Buying Stockings For Beauty And Long Wear

By ALICIA HART

THE purchasing of stockings is a hit-or-miss proposition for many women, who find themselves baffled by the jargon of the hosiery trade.

For those of us who use terms like full-fashioned, denier and gauge without fully understanding what is meant by them, Willys of Hollywood, outstanding hosiery designer, offers some tips on the selection of stockings.

The weight is determined by both denier and gauge. Denier is actually the thickness of the nylon thread used in the stocking. It rises in weight as its number increases. Fifteen, the most popular weight, is light; 30 denier is twice as heavy. Twenty denier is slightly heavier than 15; and 40 doubles the former.

Gauge, on the other hand, refers to the thread count. This means the number of stitches used for each inch-and-a-half across the stocking. Thus, a knit using 51 stitches gives us a 51-gauge stocking.

For daytime wear, most women now prefer 51 gauge-15 denier, and for sheer flattery in the evening, 60-15. Service weights have lower gauges and higher deniers. Hose should be examined at the time of purchase for points of reinforcement. Most hose are knitted

Baird Pulls Strings For 600 Puppets

By RICHARD KLEINER

BIL BAIRD is the kind of guy who always carries a pair of pliers with him in his breast pocket. When he dresses formal, he wears a special pair—silver-plated.

There's a perfectly logical explanation for that unusual dress accessory. It's simply that Bil goes out with people who may need repairs from time to time. And a man needs tools with him for such emergencies.

Bil Baird, you see, is one of America's top puppeteers. He dreams them, and performs with them. But he never loses, sells or gives away those tools. They are his. In an old carriage house that is now his workshop studio and home, Baird has more than 600 puppets stashed away. Each one is embroidered neatly in a box. Each one represents on an average, about 250 hours of labor. That's almost 24 years of work boxed up.

DIRECTS AS WELL

The big barnlike structure does double duty for Baird. It is here that he and his staff construct the puppets. But Baird, a master mechanic, also uses the place as a movie studio. He produces and directs movie shorts with all-puppet casts.

Producing a perfect puppet is an art, as Baird does it. He starts out by drawing a sketch of the creature he wants. Then comes a larger, anatomically-detailed sketch. This is divided into segments, since a puppet is not just one hunk of wood that's carved into shape.

Most of his puppets have 12 parts—a torso, upper and lower leg, head, jaw, and a part that fits in just south of the torso and north of the upper leg.

The head, which is the puppet's most important feature, is molded most easily and then cast in plaster. Fitting the jaw in so that it will waggle naturally is a job that used to take long hours. But Baird designed a machine that lines up the jaw automatically.

Another Bairdbuilt gadget jipes up the other joints—legs, arms and move.

JOHN KEATS

Young Poet Gave Famous Saying To The World

By UNCLE RAY

In a poem we find these words:

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

That statement was used in the opening of a famous poem, "Endymion," written by John Keats. More than a century has passed since the poem was composed, and the opening line has become a saying which is quoted widely. It seems to me that it has the quality of truth.

Keats was only 22 years of age when he wrote "Endymion." Born in London, he was the son of a man who kept a very tidy table. During his boyhood, his father was killed in an accident. A fall from a horse. His deeply-loved mother died soon afterward, a victim of tuberculosis.

KEPT UP SCHOOLING

So it came about that John was left an orphan. Two heavy blows had come to him in a short space, and they might have ended all hope that he would make any mark in the world. He was a dreamy, tender-hearted lad, and if he had been set to hard labor, the song of life might have failed to come to him. Even if he had felt like writing, the lack of schooling might have kept him from doing it well.

As it was, he was able to go on with his education. Money had been left by his parents, and this was of greatest importance. After finishing his work at lower schools, he studied to be a surgeon.

While at work in a London hospital, he gained knowledge of many things which a surgeon needed to know, but at length he gave up the idea of following that profession. He wanted to be a poet instead of a doctor!

HELPED IN ACCIDENT

During the rest of his life it appears that he took the part of a doctor only once. One day he saw a man suffer a fall. He set the bones, and later was told that he had performed the task in a masterful fashion.

GIVES A WELCOME

In newly-constructed houses, many front doors are given emphasis by the addition of shutters. These permit the introduction of lovely color in an area that focuses attention on the entrance-way and seems to add a welcoming note. The shutters that flank the front door are usually painted the same color as other shutters on the house and, of course, blend with the coloring of the roof. Almost any color can be used for the purpose and attractive ones have appeared lately of colors ranging from magenta to turquoise—from yellow-gold to terra cotta.

After that event, Keats said:

"I was glad to help him, but it would be a dreadful thing to be a surgeon and see so much suffering."

After "Endymion" was published, Keats and a friend set out on a

Canada Changes Mind On Official Overprints

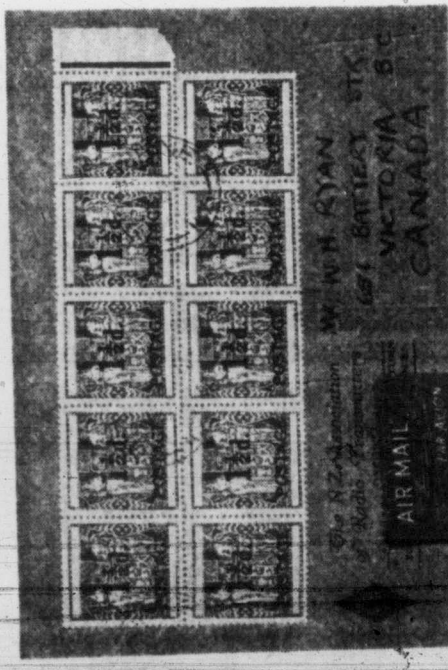

WHEN the first Canadian "O.H.M.S." overprints appeared some months ago, it was suggested in this column that they would prove an interesting new field for specialization, and events have borne out this remark.

Already these stamps have given collectors a good run for their money, for even to get a complete series of singles in used condition is far from easy in spite of their small cost, while those who were lucky enough to pick up some of the rare errors in overprinting (missing periods) can congratulate themselves, for they are rapidly rising in price.

Now comes some news from Ottawa which will add considerable excitement to the collecting of these official stamps. The whole series with the "O.H.M.S." overprint is to be dropped to make place for a new set which will show the letter "G" (for "Government") instead. Date of issue will be around Oct. 2.

MANY WILL BE SHORT
This is going to give the current stamps a very short life indeed, and many of us are going to find ourselves without such items as the "G" (both types), $1, and 10c Social Delivery, in used condition. The writer has yet to see any of these, himself, by the way.

Fortunately, the new 10c "Fur Trade" will not be overprinted until later so the current 10c will at

JACOBY ON CANASTA

These Answers Settle Penalty Card Problems

JUDGING by my mail, the $64 canasta question still is, "What is the penalty for putting down cards for the initial meld and then finding that the count is insufficient?"

Enough readers still seem to be confused on this subject to make it worthwhile to go over the penalty again.

As a starter, there is no penalty at all unless you are playing in a partnership game. The reason is that when you put cards on the table illegally you are helping the other players. If you have no partner, you are merely helping your opponents and that in itself is enough penalty. However, when you have a partner you may gain an advantage by showing some of your cards illegally. Hence there must be some penalty.

The penalty is that the cards placed on the table illegally become what is known as penalty cards. As such they must remain on the table as penalty cards until they are either melded legally or discarded.

The process of discarding them is somewhat painful. The rule is that you must discard one of them at each turn and cannot discard from your hand proper as long as you have cards on the table in penalty status.

Therefore, if you have penalty cards you want to get in position to meld them legally as soon as you can. You can do this by being

BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Many Finesses Are Not Necessary

"Here's one for you Hard Luck South," writes a Victoria bridge player.

South was unfortunate as only Hard Luck Joe can be. I am sure you will also find other similarities. "West opened the jack of diamonds, and South won with the ace. He promptly led a heart to dummy's king, and returned the 10 of spades from dummy to take the trump finesse. West won with the king of spades and returned a heart, knocking out dummy's ace.

"The contract now depended on South drawing the rest of the trumps, winding up in dummy with the nine of spades. He then led the queen of clubs from dummy, hoping that this finesse would succeed. However, West won with the king of clubs, and the defence promptly cashed one heart and one diamond, setting the contract.

"Naturally South complained about his hard luck, and you can imagine how much sympathy he got. I am sure you will be delighted to know that there are Hard Luck Joe's in Victoria as well as among your own circle of friends."

I am afraid there are Hard Luck Joe's everywhere that bridge is played. I can just hear this Victoria declarer complaining bitterly about losing both finessses on this hand. The fact of the matter is that he didn't need either finesse!

As my correspondent hints, the contract was unbeatable if South had played it correctly. After win-

Sam Pepys Alone Could Save Navy—And He Did

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A SEVENTEENTH-CENTURY racket buster who cracked down on a swindling navy and put the word discipline into the code of the service is the subject of one of the most provocative biographies of recent years.

It is Collins' new edition of Arthur Bryant's Samuel Pepys, The Scribe of the Navy and the Final Volume in the Detailed Three-Part Study of the Famous Diarist and Administrator.

The diary, civil administration of the British civil service and creation of surviving monuments to Pepys' ability and industry. From that diary and vast collection of naval and administrative papers, Mr. Bryant has succeeded in his efforts to present a "composite picture of a great Englishman's development."

The first volume Man in the Making was first published in 1935 for the tercentenary of Pepys' birth, followed by The Years of Peril.

"The navy was in dire need and he knew that he alone could save it," writes Mr. Bryant as he covers the years 1683 to 1689, when Pepys was called back into office as secretary for the affairs of the Admiralty of England.

He was then an "aging" man of many tastes and friends, a great creative and with a no-nonsense leniency for the weaknesses of others, although in his own earlier days he attributed to many human failings. His passion for order in the navy, however, was all-consuming.

Thoughts For The Week

MONDAY
And his brightness was as the light: he had horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.—Habakkuk 3:4.

FRIDAY
For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures.—I Cor. 15:3.

TUESDAY
All things were made by him: and without him was not any thing made that was made.—John 1:3.

WEDNESDAY
And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confession, and said, O Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to keep his commandments.—Daniel 9:4.

THURSDAY
A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.—Pope.

And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God.—Rev. 21:10.

No man saw the building of the New Jerusalem, the workmen crowded together, the unfinished walls and unpaved streets; no man heard the clink of trowel and pickaxe; it descended out of heaven from God.—Seeley.

And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God.—Rev. 21:10.

No man saw the building of the New Jerusalem, the workmen crowded together, the unfinished walls and unpaved streets; no man heard the clink of trowel and pickaxe; it descended out of heaven from God.—Seeley.

Infinite Variety By Sir Osbert

"The Death of a God," by Sir Osbert Sitwell. (Macmillan).

The reader has infinite variety of people and places in these 19 masterly short stories.

Characterizations are clear-cut and vivid, a whole portrait sometimes appearing in a single phrase. In The Death of a God, from which the book takes its title, the author builds suspense skillfully and the brutality of the climax and ending comes like a sledgehammer blow.

Another of the stories, Defeat, has as its background a small French town after the capitulation to the Germans. Understandingly portrayed is the emotion of grey acceptance of defeat, and its bitter effect on the life of a young French army captain.

In striking contrast, Champagne for the Old Lady, is an ironic study of human nature in a large gambling casino. The humor lies in the wide difference between the old lady's delicate Victorian appearance and her bold criminal strategy.

Another Victorian old lady of entirely different type appears in Finavera. Sitwell carefully builds up the prim character of a 70-year-old spinster, who, on moving to Italy from a staid English atmosphere, releases all the sex inhibitions of her repressed life.

Flaque-Cart Before Horse paints a macabre picture of a building haunted by small pox. This story has an eerie atmosphere not encountered in most of the other stories.

The reader is interested and entertained but never soothed by Sitwell's keen insight into the minds of the people he creates.

The fact that his autobiography has been acclaimed as a masterpiece may have, perhaps, tended to make one forget his eminence in other branches of literature. His book demonstrates very ably his gift as an accomplished writer of the short story.

MAKES BETTER OYSTERS
Some oyster growers expose oysters to the air for short periods each day to induce better keeping qualities. Oysters do not eat during this period, but snap their shells shut, which results in exceptional ability to keep snapped, and thus preserve their flavor over a long period.

SUGAR IN STEEL
Sugar, sometimes used to "lubricate" ingot molds, forms a slippery caramel coating on the hot inner surface and thus speeds steel manufacture.

Humus Source Of All Good Cultivation

By CECIL SOLLY

FOR MANY centuries, gardeners have learned by the trial and error method that soils had to be mixed with "mould" as they called it, to make them productive. In some small areas, "good productive Earth" was already in existence, but most gardeners were less fortunate and poor crops of flowers, plants, vegetables, or lawns were the inevitable result.

Quite correctly, garden editors of newspapers and magazines and radio broadcasters, stressed the need of humus—particularly peat moss humus. They did this because the results of the application of peat moss humus were known to be definite and certain.

The sources of humus are from manures and decayed vegetation. When these are incorporated into the soil, the physical condition of the soil is vastly improved, the soil becomes more friable, the air penetrates the soil more easily, bacterial activity increases, and more plants food becomes available to the roots of the plant. Also, water is retained in the soil for a longer period, and does not evaporate so readily.

Peat moss, when mixed with the soil, absorbs and retains water for a long period, and brings about the above described results. Peat moss is vegetation in a state of arrested decomposition. After two or three years in the soil, its decomposition is completed, and it becomes humus or fertile soil.

READY FOR USE
There has been a great increase in the interest in the peat bogs of the North Atlantic in recent years. In the North Atlantic, many of the peat bogs are being reclaimed for the great economic importance of the deposits of peat in these bogs.

Nature has been storing up for some 20,000 years, great quantities of this material which is now ready for our use. Moss peat is composed of sphagnum moss. It is light in weight and has great power to absorb water. If sun and air-dried and then placed in water, peat moss will absorb twenty times its own weight. There are special cells making up a large portion of the leaves and stems of sphagnum moss that take in large quantities of water and give it up slowly when the moss is exposed to dry air or wind.

While much of our peat moss is pure sphagnum, some of it contains other mosses as well as some leaves of the roots, stems and leaves of woody and herbaceous plants. Moss peat is acid in reaction. No exceptions to this have been found in the bogs, and the data recorded in scientific papers dealing with bogs of North America and Europe all show it to be acidic.

All of the evidence indicates that sphagnum peat decays very slowly. Oxygens are acid and this is good quality for the growth of many plants, since there are a large number of acid-tolerant crops. It has been found in general, that the acidity of the soil to which a suitable quantity of peat has been added is not so great as that of the raw peat when first taken from the bog.

MUST BE MIXED
It is for this reason that every gardener is strongly advised to stir and mix the peat moss in large quantities thoroughly into the present garden soil. The reason for this need of thorough mixing is explained by horticultural scientists following manner.

Plants feed by absorbing moisture through openings on food hairs or feeding roots. On food hairs or inner surface and thus speeds steel manufacture.

Spray Weeds Away In Fall

By THE MASTER GARDENER

Just as it is the very best time for building new lawns autumn is an ideal season for improving old ones. One big advantage is that weeds killed out now can be replaced by new lawn grass rather than by the villainous crabgrass which in midsummer so often fills the holes left by early summer 24-D applications.

If September and October furnish us with good growing weather—with warm days and ample rainfall—weeds will still be growing, though not as actively as they do in the spring. With a selective weed control such as Endo-Weed, you can destroy most lawn weeds, such as dandelions, plantain and wild carrots in one or two applications. Here is how you can combine fall lawn care with an effective weed control program.

1. Dilute two table-spoonful of Endo-Weed in any small mouth gallon container of water. Attach the side spray applicator.

2. Spray the entire lawn area. This dilution will effectively cover 200 square feet of lawn.

3. When weeds start to die, feed the lawn with three pounds of plant food per 100 square feet of area. Soak the lawn thoroughly.

A day or two later go over the entire lawn, loosening the soil on thin areas where the weeds have been. Reseed these areas with good grass seed.

5. Roll or tramp newly-seeded areas to make certain the seed is in firm contact with the soil.

Everyone Can Build Horsetails

By ROBERT CONNELL

MOST PLANTS are possessed of fragile parts. Even an oak or a fir has its green leaves that a child can pull apart. And when once broken or torn it would tax one's ingenuity to put the parts together again in anything like the original form.

There is, however, one family of plants consisting of only one genus and comparatively few species that must have afforded amusement to many generations of children because of its silent appeal to both the destructive and the constructive faculties.

This group of plants is commonly known as "horsetails." Because of the fancied resemblance of some of the more common species to the flowing appendages of horses. Even the Latin name given by botanists recognizes this: the family is known as Equisetaceae and the solitary genus as Equisetum, from the Latin equus, a horse.

The singular character of the plants of this kind is that they can be pulled apart into a more or less large number of joints and then put together again. I suppose every child knows this and has exercised on them its skill in rebuilding.

FLORISH ON SLAG HEAPS

Horsetails belong to a very ancient group of plants, far older than our flowering plants from herbs to trees. They take us back to the Carboniferous age and the coal fields of Europe and the eastern states were deposited. In the plant remains that form these great deposits of carbon are found huge relatives of these humble plants of our time. Some that closely resemble our modern horsetails were a hundred feet high.

Along the seashore banks at Corrova and Cadboro Bays, or along woodland paths where the soil is moist and sandy as in the Pemberton Woods or in areas of low-lying meadows and fields the modern representatives of the family are to be commonly met with.

THICK AS CIGARETTE

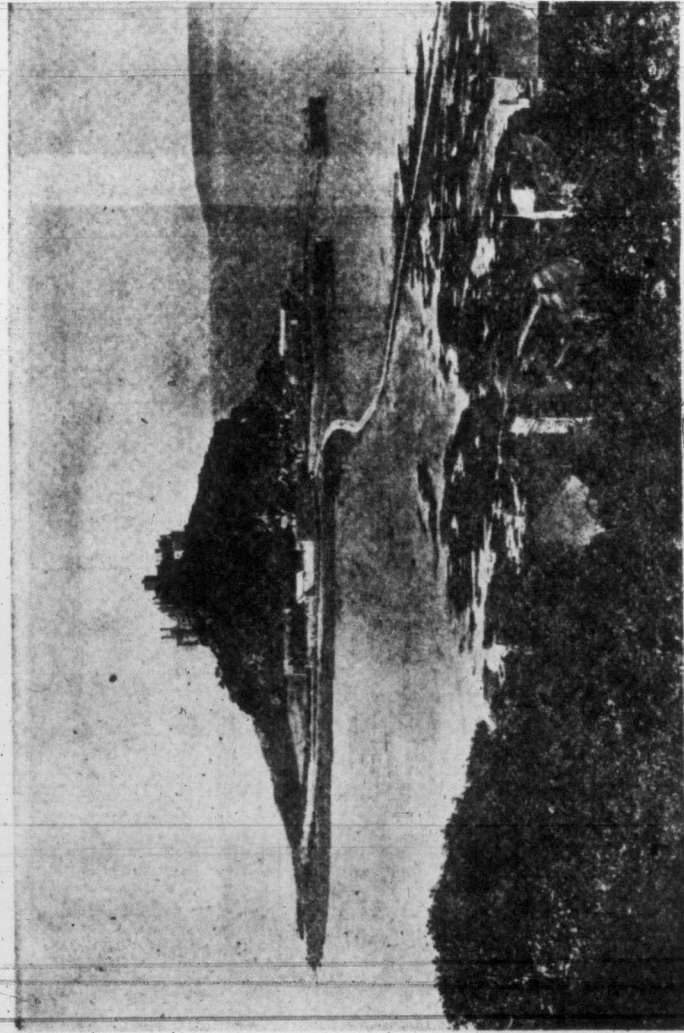

A large and striking species is found along the moist seashore banks with a stout stem three feet long or more, and as thick as an ordinary cigarette.

Its bright green surface is marked by bands of black and pale grey from two to three inches apart and consisting of a broad grey band between two black ones, the upper of which is the wider and has conspicuous teeth.

The surface is rough to the touch from the presence of minute rows of silica, and this property has made it of use in the polishing of wood and metal; so it is called the "polishing rush," and large quantities used to be imported into England from Holland where it grows abundantly in the vicinity of the dykes.

The reproductive spores are contained in a cylindrical cone at the summit of the stem.

A smaller species of the woods and fields has the spore-bearing cone carried by a special thick, pinkish yellow stem while the other or vegetative stems have the whorls of slender green branches jointed like the main stem, and almost lacy in their appearance to the eye. This is the common horsetail.

FAIRYLEIKE CASTLE ON SEA-GIRT ROCK

St. Michael's Mount, in the English county of Cornwall, is connected to the mainland by a causeway which is exposed only when the tide is low. Once the home of Benedict monks, it has a 16th century castle perched on its summit.

Spray Gun Can Be Used For Many Home Painting Jobs

By BOB SCHAEFF

APPLICATION of all types of protective and decorative coating by means of a spray gun has developed so that its advantages now can be realized by the home handyman.

For most home painting jobs, use a small capacity unit usually powered with one-quarter h.p. motor and spraying at approximately 30 pounds pressure.

Before starting, prepare the surface in the same manner you would for brush painting—sanding and dusting wood and thoroughly cleaning metal.

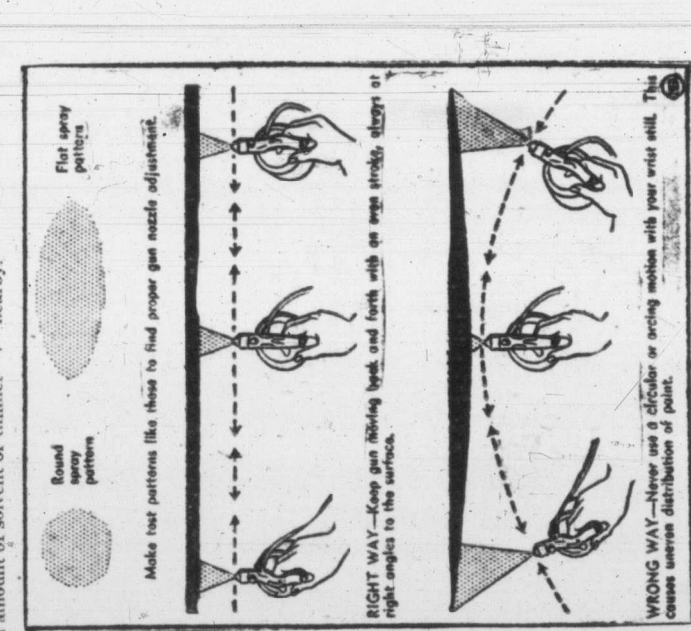

To mix the coating material, add thinner according to the directions on the label. In most cases, these mixing directions will be the same as for brushing. Check by testing the mixture in the gun. If too thick, it will spatter. If too thin, it covers poorly and will run. Properly proportioned, it forms an even coating. After the material is properly mixed, it should be strained through a piece of common screen wire or regular paint strainer. This will remove any dirt or lumps from the material.

MAKE TEST PATTERN

To obtain the proper gun nozzle adjustment for the type of work to be done, make a test pattern by holding the nozzle six inches away from a sheet of paper, pull the trigger and then quickly release it. A round pattern should be used for small irregular surfaces while a flat pattern is desired for larger areas. When actually spraying a surface, pull the trigger at the beginning of the stroke and keep the gun moving constantly, parallel to the surface being painted. Never use a circular or arching stroke motion or stop the gun with the trigger pulled, for this causes the material to pile up at one spot and an uneven coating will result.

Keep the distance between nozzle and work uniformly between six and eight inches. Overlap the back and forth strokes an inch or so, as the spray gun progresses along the area being finished. A cardboard shield or masking tape can be used to protect surfaces not to be painted.

When the job is completed or a change of material is desired, clean the gun by first emptying and wiping out the container cup. Then pour a small amount of solvent or thinner nearby.

Start out by learning the right way to handle a paint sprayer and you'll save a lot of mess-up jobs.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Words Count More In New 'Opera'

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

ONE of the most interesting developments of the stage in these modern times, has been the wedding of music and drama in a new form, more logical and coherent than opera; more emotionally penetrating and mood-inducing than a play.

The result cannot be described as a new invention, but rather as the evolutionary offspring of several forebears. Even Wagner cannot claim as entirely his own the idea of music-drama. Today we think of music-drama as a dramatic series of highly colored dramatic events but the word came originally from the music spoken drama with incident in a mood music.

The first progenitor of this type of entertainment, at least on the English-speaking stage, appeared in 1656, with the production of "The Siege of Rhodes." Since that time we have had operas, operettas, musicals, and all more or less sacrificing the literary music to the musical one.

CAN BE COMBINED

It has taken 300 years, but at last we have reached the point of discovering that honest, sustained characterization and fine writing can be combined with an important musical score to make a fascinating entertainment. So the musical play has evolved and is making rapid headway.

It has grown up through efforts like "Lady in the Dark," "Pal Joey" and a flop of the '20's called "Great Music" to record a series of successes like "Carousel" and "Brigadoon," and to meet with its greatest artistic triumph in the Maxwell Anderson-Kurt Weill masterpiece, "Lost in the Stars."

Alan Patton's moving South African tragedy, "Cry the Beloved Country," has here found vivid and wonderful life. But there is plenty of scope for fresh and broader developments in this medium which is proving so satisfying to the tastes of 20th century audiences.

VIEWS ON ELIOT DIFFER

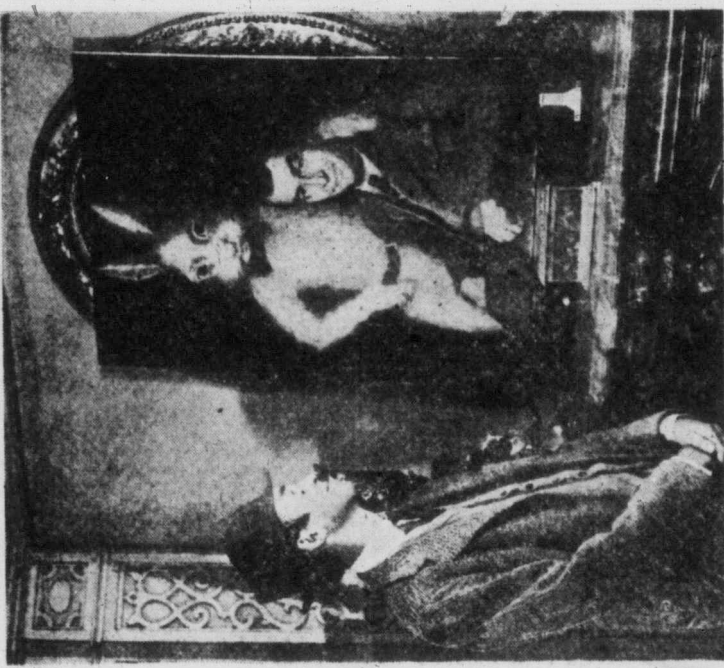

A couple of weeks ago this column quoted anonymously an Englishman's opinion of T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party," which defined anyone to find any poetry in it, or even worthwhile subject matter.

As a contrast and postscript, we now quote Thyra Samter Winslow, who, in the American publication, Theatre Time, describes the play as "one of the best of the season . . . played by a brilliant English company that manages to get all there is out of the beautiful lines."

The tremendous difference in taste and opinion that occurs between the two great English-speaking metropolises is illustrated most distinctly in the field of dramatic criticism. Consider the case of the much-discussed "Streetcar Named Desire."

Tennessee Williams' taut, emotionally elemental drama of the last, lost remnant of a dead social order, won every accolade possible this side of the Atlantic. It has been declared a product of genius and one of the greatest pieces of stage literature ever written by an American. Yet it met with nothing but stony disapproval from English critics. One even went so far as to describe it as a "Broadway pot-boiler."

A note of doubt also is already heard in pre-opening comments of JIMMY'S INVISIBLE RABBIT IS SHOWING!

To be visible or invisible? That is the question which raged during the filming of the Pulitzer Prize play, "Harvey." Playwright Mary Chase contended that the invisible rabbit which is the title character of her comedy should appear, but meeting Producer John Beck, director Henry Kosler and Jimmy Stewart, star of the film, insisted the six-foot bunny remain invisible, as on the stage. Compromise was reached when it was decided that Harvey would be shown one scene only, but not as the character. Jimmy Stewart gave a portrait of himself posed with his rabbit pal and mounts it in the library, as shown herewith.

Boy In Theatre Gallery Shouted And Hero Was Saved From Awful Death

THE San Francisco Stage, by Edmund Gagey, is a brilliant unfolding of the lives and careers of scores of famous actors and entertainers. The San Francisco audience—like most audiences—always appreciates melodrama. When Augustin Daly's "Under the Gaslight" was produced in 1887 it was an instant success, and the box office receipts set a record for the city.

The scene of the play, quite original when Daly conceived it, represented some railroad tracks and a small freight house. In this shack the heroine has been locked for the night along with some miscellaneous freight, including—a bundle of axes.

"As the climax comes," writes Gagey, "Snorkey, a one-armed veteran of the Civil War, has been overpowered by the villainous Byke and tied across the railroad tracks. Byke's Parthian shot is scarcely reassuring. 'Now, then, Mr. Snorkey, hunt me down, will you? But when you hear the roar of the wheels along the rails; when you hear the whistle shriek and feel the head of the train crashing into your brain, then you'll remember Byke!'"

'GET OUT AN AXE'

A vivid description of the hysterical excitement that overcame the audience at this crucial moment is given by Clay Greene in his reminiscences. "The train," writes Greene, "was heard approaching and the audience plunged into a buzz of nervous excitement over the possibility of Snorkey being cut to pieces, with no hope of help. For Mrs. Bates, as Laura, found it a hope."

JESSE WAS LEGEND

One of the biggest legends in American history is the legend of Jesse James. "Even before he was killed," writes Homer Grey (in

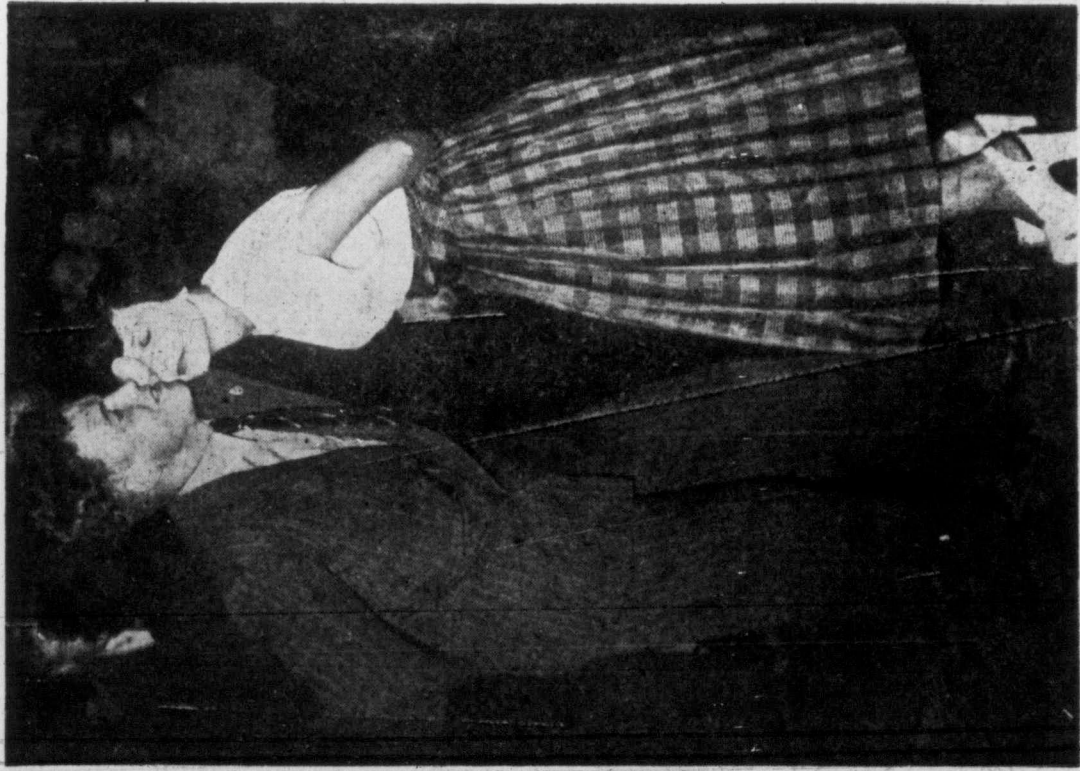

Jesse James was a legend, and novels about him and his exploits had been gun to appear. (He used to read them to see how far they were from the facts.)

The most prolific Jesse James author was John R. Musick of Missouri, who wrote under the name of "D. W. Stevens." His stories—all pure inventions—and those of at least a dozen other writers, appeared in several weekly publications: New York Detective Library, Boys of New York, and there was even a James Boys' Weekly.

Another publisher, Frank Tousey, made more money printing stories about Jesse James than Frank and Jesse made in all their lives as bandits, thus pretty conclusively showing that crime does not pay and that the big money is in telling about it.

Another myth is that of the treasure buried by the James Brothers. "The treasure (continues Grey) of the Jameses has been found off and on for 40 years. It shifts around more than the magnetic pole; one year it's here, the next year it's gone off goodness knows where. On Nov. 5, 1937, Robert L. Ripley had a thrilling Believe It Or Not! headline was:

Frank James Buried $2,000,000—Then Forgot Where He Buried It. The text told how Frank had buried the money in the Wichita Mountains in Oklahoma, and after his acquittal had come back to retrieve it, only to discover that new settlers had ploughed up the ground so that he could not find the money. "Cry, in fact, is able to prove beyond doubt that this myth is false."

TAKE AN EYEFUL OF POTATO DANCE

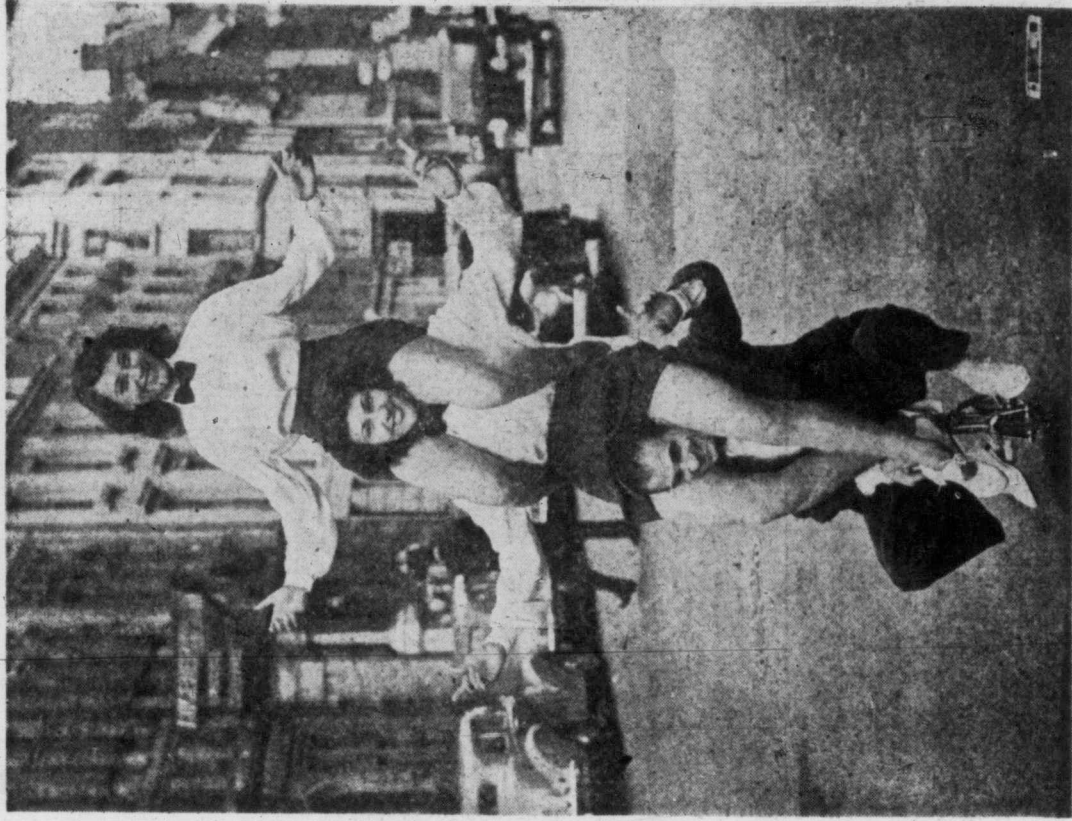

Latest craze of the ballroom in Britain is the potato dance. Couples dance with their hands behind their backs with potato pressed forehead to forehead. Potato must stay put through successive rhythms or couple is disqualified. Last couple left on floor wins. Here are near-finalists Peter Mitchell and Betty Hymanson. —(Mirrorpic)

'HOLD ON, KIDS, WE'RE MOVING OFF'

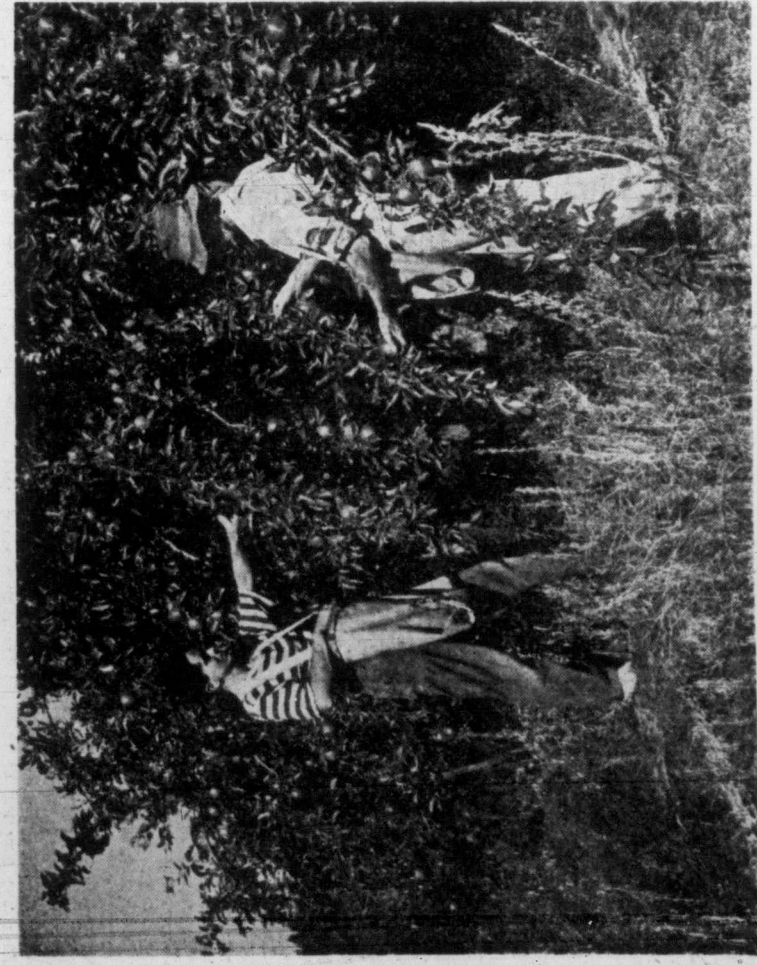

Marina Possum takes an outing with a full passenger cargo on her back. If any of the baby possums fall off they have to catch her tail and hang on. These alert youngsters may learn to play possum some day, but right now they are eager to see a new world from the safety of mamma's back. —(Courtesy National Audubon Society)

HOW'S THIS FOR OVERCROWDING

Take a good look at a bicycle made for three—using a magnifying glass if necessary. This little gadget created quite a sensation when it carried a grown man and two lovely passengers along the streets of London. But it comes natural to Les Romanos, trick cyclist out on a practice run. —(Mirrorpic)

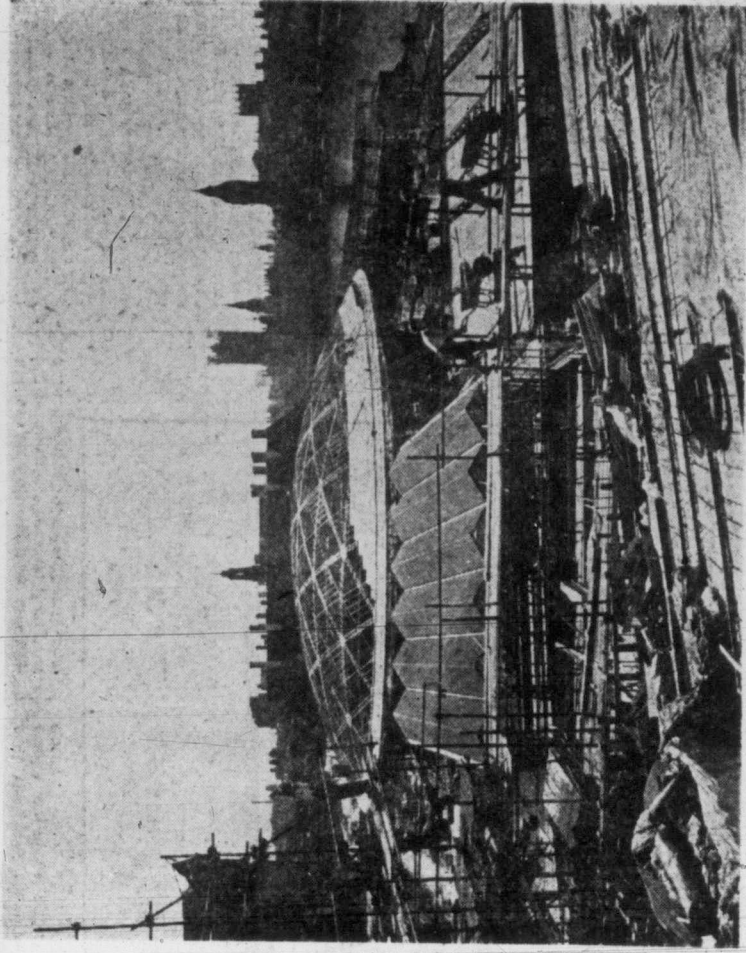

APPLE PICKING IN FULL SWING

These are busy days in the Okanagan Valley. Hot summer days have brought the fruit crops to a ripe perfection, and here are two pickers busy at work on an orchard near Penticton.

RUSSELL BY MARRIAGE—AND OUTSTANDING TOO

One of latest to take up a Hollywood contract is Leslie Banning, who has a decorative role in "The Desert Hawk," new U.I. technicolor production. In private life Leslie is Mrs. Wallace Russell, and her husband is a brother of the lovely Jane Russell.

LID GOES ON FESTIVAL SITE

Like a giant spider's web, the dome slowly takes shape for Festival of Britain site on south bank of the Thames in London. Here workmen are preparing the aluminum roof of the dome, with the Houses of Parliament in the background. —(Mirrorpic)

BRUCE HUTCHISON
... at work on his column for the Victoria Times

'LOOSE ENDS' RETURNS

Bruce Hutchison To Rejoin Times Staff

Bruce Hutchison, distinguished Canadian author-editor, columnist, rejoins the staff of the Victoria Daily Times on Monday, Oct. 2.

Mr. Hutchison will write his editorial page column, "Loose Ends," which was an outstanding feature of this paper from 1929 to 1939, on a three-weekly basis, and will also contribute editorials from time to time.

In signing to do this special column for the Daily Times, Mr. Hutchison is returning to his journalistic Alma Mater. He began his newspaper career on the Times April 12, 1918, and rapidly established himself as one of the foremost commentators on the Canadian scene.

From political reporting in the B.C. Legislature Bruce Hutchison broadened out to cover Ottawa, London and Washington. His articles, covering an amazingly versatile range from economics to human interest and satire, were printed in such ranking publications as Fortune, Barron's, Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Financial Post, Maclean's, Colliers, and many others. At the same time he appeared regularly as a commentator on national affairs via the CBC.

Publishing New Book Nov. 2

In 1943 Hutchison produced "The Unknown Country," which has become a popular classic in Canada, with wide sale throughout the world. This was followed in 1946 by a novel, "Hollow Men," set against a British Columbia-Ottawa background. His third book, on the Fraser River, is due for publication Nov. 2. Advance critiques hail it as one of the finest books yet written in the "River" series.

In recent years Mr. Hutchison has been an associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, a connection which he continues.

When "Loose Ends" returns to the Daily Times, Mr. Hutchison will bring with him Mrs. Noggins, the Boy and Girl Next Door, and all the other characters who made this column one of the most widely-quoted features in the country.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (Reuter).—Dai Rees won the British professional match play golf championship for the fourth time here today.

The defending champion defeated Frank Jowle by 7 and 6, in the 36-hole final.

Further Phone Rate Boost Demand Seen

Telephone Official Disappointed In New Increase Effective Oct. 6

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbians will start paying a new B.C. Telephone Co. rate increase Oct. 6, the company announced in Vancouver today.

Request for still further rate increases was indicated today by B.C. Telephone Company president Gordon Farrell in the face of mounting expansion costs.

Expressing disappointment at the rate now authorized, Farrell said "any amount short of the full amount asked for is inadequate."

"Failure to obtain the requested increase, Farrell said, 'may necessitate the company applying for a further increase.'"

The increase, to go into effect Oct. 6, second-greatest the company in the past 3½ months, was approved by the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa Friday. The previous boost was the first granted since 1921.

The ruling means that on Oct. 6, subscribers will pay 15 cents more, or $3.40 for a two-party resident telephone and 50 cents or $10.25 a month for a business phone.

The rates now authorized will give the company an estimated annual increase in gross revenue of $1,967,000, or 86.7 per cent of the original increase sought.

Toronto, Hamilton Football Winners

(From BUP Dispatches)

In the Big Four football games in eastern Canada, Toronto Argonauts whipped Ottawa Rough Riders 36-15 at Toronto. At Hamilton, Hamilton Tiger Cats defeated Montreal Alouettes 18-12.
